

Daladier Warns France to Hold To Democracy

Risk of Dictatorship If Country Not Rebuilt Wisely

Decree Powers

PARIS (AP)—Premier Daladier declared today he hoped the work of rebuilding France would be accomplished "by methods of democracy," but "in any case I will do my duty without caring about popularity or unpopularity."

His statement was interpreted as a warning to the French people that they must use their democratic privileges for the good of the nation or risk dictatorship. His cabinet today was given powers to govern France by decree until November 15, powers approved by the Senate and Chamber of Deputies.

The Senate's vote was 286 to 4. The Chamber in the early morning had voted the decree powers by 331 to 78, with 204 abstentions, after a stormy all-night session in which the Premier met much more opposition than in the previous debate on approval of the four-power pact of Munich.

The Chamber yesterday approved that accord for dismemberment of Czechoslovakia to save Europe's peace by 535 to 75.

M. Daladier did not pin the life of his cabinet on the Senate vote, since his demand for decree powers was assured of easy acceptance.

BROAD AUTHORITY

When the decree is published in the Official Journal, probably tomorrow, the Daladier government will have broad, almost unlimited powers to rule the nation until November 15.

Such powers were sought to grapple with the economic and financial ills confronting France. M. Daladier came into office last April 10 with similar powers, but they expired July 31.

NO CLOSED DOORS AT BREN INQUIRY

Suggested Secret Examination of British Documents At Ottawa Rejected

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Justice H. H. Davis, royal commissioner, will not hold any part of the Bren machine gun inquiry behind closed doors. This was disclosed today in a new exchange of messages between the Canadian and British governments over the use of documents concerning the British War Office.

The Dominion Secretary in a cable from London said consent for use of the documents would be given if the documents were examined in camera. In reply Prime Minister King, as Secretary of State for External Affairs, said he could not agree to this condition and renewed his request for consent to use the documents.

Hon. J. L. Ralston, government counsel, read the cables today as the inquiry into the contract between the Canadian government and the John Inglis Company of Toronto for 7,000 Bren light machine guns continued. Criticism of the contract in a magazine article by Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, K.C., of Toronto led to the inquiry.

TORONTO (CP)—J. P. Bickell, registrar of motor vehicles, announced today Ontario's 1939 automobile license plates will be black with white serial numbers.

THE WEATHER

VICTORIA, 5 a.m. today—The barometer is high from Vancouver Island southward, but falling rapidly west of Queen Charlotte Islands. The weather has been cool and showery in northern British Columbia, but mostly fair and somewhat warmer in southern districts. It continues cloudy and cool in the prairie provinces.

Vancouver—Barometer, 30.10; temperature, max. 64, min. 44; calm; clear.
Prince Rupert—Barometer, 30.16; temperature, max. 54, min. 46; wind, 4 miles S.; precip. 0.2; clear.
San Francisco—Barometer, 30.02; temperature, max. 64, min. 54; wind, 6 miles W.; clear.

On the Yangtze River front, the Japanese said their forces had captured Saddle Mountain forts.

Chinese sources at Hongkong yesterday reported 20 Japanese troop transports, escorted by destroyers, had arrived off Formosa, ostensibly for an invasion of southern China. They said also several additional airplane carriers had reached southern Chinese waters.

Yanks Capture Series Opener

Defeat Chicago Cubs 3 to 1 in First Game of World Baseball Classic

Yankees—020001000-3 12 1
Chicago—001000000-1 9 1

Wrigley Field, Chicago, (AP)—Turning on their famed batting power for 12 hits against Bill Lee and Jack Russell, the world champion New York Yankees defeated the Chicago Cubs, 3 to 1 in the opening game of the world baseball series here today before 44,000 disappointed fans.

Lee, backbone of the Chicago hurling staff, was combed for 11 hits by the Manhattan sluggers before he retired for a pinch-hitter in the eighth. Red Ruffing held the Cubs to 9 hits, including a triple by Manager Gabby Hartnett, and was never in serious danger. Lee struck out six and Ruffing five.

Ruffing and Joe DiMaggio alone of the Yankee line-up failed to get in on the clubbing. Bill Dickey, tall catcher, was the big-gest explosion with four singles. He scored what proved the winning run in the second inning and drove across Tommy Henrich with the final run of the game in the sixth.

Stanley Hack, third sacker of the Cubs, was the only Chicago batter to give Ruffing trouble, getting three for four.

FOUR DOUBLE PLAYS
The big crowd got plenty of fielding thrills with each club pulling off a pair of double killings.

In the second Yankee inning Gehrig walked and went to third on Dickey's single to right. The latter reached second on the throw to third. Selkirk was safe on Herman's error, Gehrig scoring. Joe Gordon, rookie New York second baseman, smashed a hit into left field scoring Dickey, with the second run.

The third inning saw the Cubs score their lone run. Collins led off with a sharp hit to right field for a single. Jurgens struck out and Lee grounded to Dickey, Collins racing to second. Hack hit safely to right field scoring Collins.

Henrich's double against the right field wall and Dickey's third straight hit gave the Yanks their third run in the sixth.

The total paid attendance was 44,242, and the receipts $210,025. The players' share was $107,112.75.

Japanese Claim Troops Gaining

Report 12-Mile Advance in Drive On Hankow in China

SHANGHAI (AP)—Japanese followed up a 12-mile advance Wednesday with a furious attack by which they occupied Lohi, 38 miles southwest of Juichang.

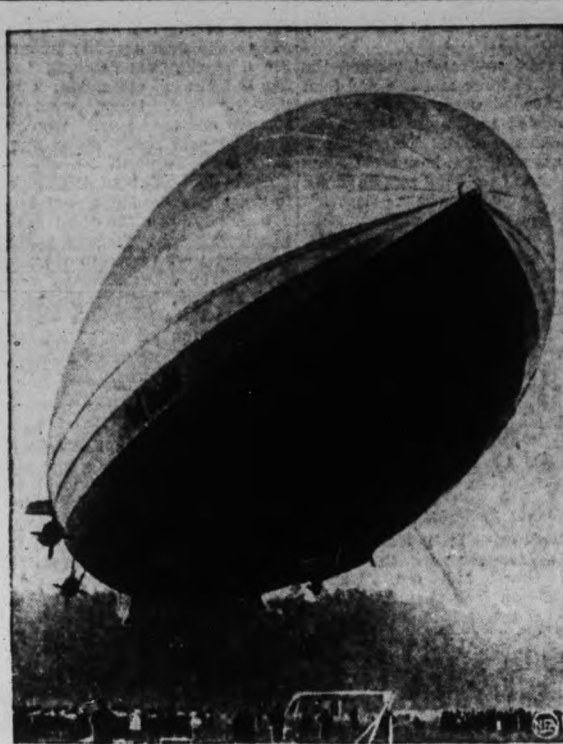

Japanese claimed the maneuver turned the left flank of the Chinese line defending bitterly-contested Tien. Chinese said they defeated Japanese attempting to push through the Taipei mountains on the north bank of the Yangtze, northwest of Hankow.

A Japanese communique said invading planes bombed Liangshan, in eastern Szechwan province and destroyed nine grounded Chinese planes, seven of which were shot down.

On the Yangtze River front, the Japanese said their forces had captured Saddle Mountain forts.

Chinese sources at Hongkong yesterday reported 20 Japanese troop transports, escorted by destroyers, had arrived off Formosa, ostensibly for an invasion of southern China. They said also several additional airplane carriers had reached southern Chinese waters.

NEW ZEPPELIN FLIES—Undergoing tests now in Germany is the dirigible built at Friedrichshafen as a successor to the Hindenburg. The above picture was taken during its first flight. It was hoped to avoid the use of hydrogen, to avert all possibility of such an explosion and fire as destroyed the Hindenburg, but as yet that gas is lifting the new machine. The Germans looked to the United States for a supply of helium, but Washington has put a ban on exports of that non-inflammable gas.

Russia Urged to Join Pact

By JEFF SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON—Sir John Simon told the House of Commons today that Great Britain had no desire to shut Soviet Russia out of "any future settlement of Europe."

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking in the third day of debate on the Munich settlement of the German-Czechoslovak problem, urged Russia should join other powers in guaranteeing the new boundaries of Czechoslovakia.

He proposed a motion that Parliament approve "the policy of His Majesty's government by which war was averted in the recent crisis, and support efforts to reach a lasting peace."

RT Hon. Arthur Greenwood promptly introduced a Labor Party amendment which read: "That this House, while profoundly relieved that war has been averted for the time being, cannot approve a policy which has led to the sacrifice of Czechoslovakia under threat of armed force, and to the humiliation of our country and its exposure to grave dangers; and realizing the intense desire of all peoples for lasting peace, demands an active support of methods of collective security through the League of Nations and immediate initiative by His Majesty's government of proposals for summoning a world conference to consider the removal of economic and political grievances which imperil peace."

GENERAL PACT
The Chancellor of the Exchequer, a member of the "inner cabinet" which advised Prime Minister Chamberlain during the Sudeten German crisis, affirmed the Prime Minister's desire for a lasting understanding between democracies and dictatorships. He denied Mr. Chamberlain sought a four-power pact among Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy which would disregard other states and "impose its will on Europe."

Macchione Will Go to Gallows

Sicilian Section Hand Loses Long Fight; Hangs October 26

The legal fight for the life of Vincent Macchione was at an end today.

His third appeal from conviction on a charge of murdering Mike Hudock near Fernie on February 9, 1936, was dismissed in a judgment handed down by the Court of Appeal this morning. There was no dissent in the decision. He now stands sentenced to hang on October 26.

The 36-year-old Sicilian section worker was tried four times. Three times Assize Court juries found him guilty of the crime. A fourth jury disagreed. Twice appeals were carried to the highest court in British Columbia and new trials ordered.

"In this appeal from the conviction of the appellant for murder at the last Vernon Assizes, Coram Murphy, J., three of the grounds of appeal were disposed of during the argument, leaving only that of misdirection for our further consideration," Chief Justice Martin stated in delivering judgment today. "As to that, after reading, and re-reading the charge as a whole in the light of the evidence and considering with care the passage complained of, we can only reach the conclusion that, viewed as it must be in connection with the instructions that preceded it, accompanied, and followed it, there is nothing of substance in said charge that militated unfairly against the accused."

The last appeal was heard by the Chief Justice, Mr. Justice Macdonald and Mr. Justice McQuarrie.

BRITISH ENVOY HAS TALK AT ROME
Ambassador Believed Discussing Bringing Pact Into Force

ROME (AP)—The Earl of Perth, British ambassador to Italy, called on Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano today to discuss Anglo-Italian relations for the third successive day.

Official circles were silent on the tenor of the conversations, but in diplomatic quarters it was believed the possibility of bringing the dormant Anglo-Italian accord into speedy effect was being explored.

This agreement was signed April 16 last, with the understanding it was to become effective when a Spanish war "settlement" was reached.

Diplomatic quarters attached considerable importance to France's decision to send an ambassador to Rome to fill the vacancy which has existed since 1936. It was regarded as certain the new ambassador would be accredited to the king as Emperor of Ethiopia, making his appointment a de facto recognition of Italy's African conquest.

Spanish Loyalists Say Insurgents Halted On Ebro Front

HENDAYE, France (AP)—The Spanish government reported today its troops had halted an insurgent drive on the Ebro front and recaptured many positions lost during the past few days.

Insurgents admitted counter-attacks in force, but claimed possession of six additional government positions.

The fighting centred among hills along the Godesa-Mora de Ebro highway. Positions have been changing hands repeatedly with little effect on the general front.

BENES QUIT AS CZECH PRESIDENT

Choice of New Chief May Lead to Co-operation With Germany

PRAGUE (AP)—The resignation of President Eduard Benes of Czechoslovakia was officially announced today.

The resignation of the chief of state, who had held his little republic together as long as possible under the pressure of tremendous events, was not unexpected, although it had been denied several times recently that he intended to step down.

M. Benes became President of Czechoslovakia in December, 1935, succeeding the founder of the republic, the late Thomas Masaryk.

The Munich agreement of the four big powers, compelling Czechoslovakia to cede Sudetenland to Germany, represented a complete failure of the foreign policy with which M. Benes had been closely associated since the founding of the state 20 years ago.

CO-OPERATION
Informed persons felt that Benes' departure from office—possibly from the country—might remove the current acute situation and make collaboration with Germany possible.

It was reliably reported that Hitler had indicated he would be more generous in his negotiations with the new Czech state if a president more acceptable to Germany than Benes were named.

BABY GIRL DIES AFTER SCALDING
Joyce Evelyn Thornton of Deep Cove Fell Into Tub of Boiling Water

Joyce Evelyn Thornton, 18 months old, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Thornton, Deep Cove, died this morning from scalds received yesterday when she fell into a tub of boiling water.

The child was playing in the kitchen yesterday while her mother was washing clothes and while Mrs. Thornton's back was turned the baby backed into a tub of boiling water on the floor.

She was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thornton. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Percy Mowbray, 1071 Finlayson Avenue. The funeral will be held at McCall's Funeral Home.

PLUNGE IN LAKE CAUSES DEATH
Twenty-year-old Ivan Waring Dies From Broken Back Suffered Month Ago

Ivan Waring of Prospect Lake, who was seriously injured while diving at Elk Lake this summer, died this morning at the Royal Jubilee Hospital, aged 20 years. Young Waring was swimming at the lake with some companions and in diving struck a submerged stump and broke his back.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Waring, Prospect Lake, two brothers and two sisters, Robert, Victor, Mary and Joyce, all at home, and his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Olmstead, Victoria.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Churchill Sees Reich Domination

Democracies Face Ruin If They Act Vigorously, He Says

LONDON (CP)—Winston Churchill told the House of Commons today the Munich agreement paves the way for German domination of Europe and possible ruin of the democratic states.

"We have sustained a total, unmitigated defeat, and France has suffered even more than we have," Mr. Churchill declared.

The only difference between Chancellor Hitler's Godesberg ultimatum and the terms of the Munich settlement, he contended, was that "the German dictator, instead of snatching his victims from the table, is content to have them served to him course by course."

The whole equilibrium of Europe had been derailed as a result of the Munich settlement, he said.

"But I do not believe this is the end," Mr. Churchill told the House. "This is only the first forerunner of the bitter cup which will be offered you year by year unless we recover by a supreme effort morale and health and by martial vigor we rise again and take our stand for freedom as in olden times."

VICTORIA MAN DIES IN AUTO
Robert Dickson Of Craigmillar Avenue Succumbs

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP)—Robert Dickson, 71-year-old resident of Victoria, B.C., died yesterday in an automobile north of here, unknown to his brother, Henry, and his nephew, Henry, who were accompanying him on a trip to Victoria.

Discovery of the body in the back seat of the car was made when the party arrived at the Swift Current camp last night.

The three Dicksons were on their way to Victoria from Perdue, Sask., where the dead man owned a farm. He had gone to Perdue for the harvest.

Mr. Dickson resided at 3770 Craigmillar Avenue, Saanich, where he leaves his widow and two daughters, Misses Mary and Margaret Dickson. The body will be brought to Victoria for interment.

Hon. C. P. Fullerton Dies in Winnipeg
Ex-Chairman of Railway Commission of Canada Succumbs in 69th Year

WINNIPEG (CP)—Hon. Charles Percy Fullerton, former chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners of Canada, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. A. C. McMillan, here this morning. The 68-year-old veteran of the bench had been ill since the beginning of June.

He was first stricken in Toronto and two months ago returned to Winnipeg to live with his daughter.

He was a former member of the Manitoba Court of Appeal and headed the board of trustees which controlled the destinies of the Canadian National Railways from 1933 until the Liberal government's appearance in 1935, when the board of directors was restored.

His death after a lengthy illness removed one of the Dominion's brilliant minds.

BECK IMPRESSIONS
Mr. Beck submitted his views on the meeting to the Mayor in the following letter:—

"In my opinion this meeting definitely and conclusively proved the urgent necessity of regulation of utilities. It further brought to light, definitely, the fact that the B.C. Electric Company intends to prevent itself from becoming subject to regulation by the City of Victoria.

"Mr. Murrin, speaking for the company, reiterated he did not and had no intention of ever availing the City of Victoria of those facts necessary for the city to determine for itself whether or not its rates are too high, whether or not discrimination is being practised. He further declared, in substance, a determination to continue to stand on the company's fifty-year-old policy of giving to the people of Victoria only what the company choose to give, conceding to the city no right whatsoever in contributing determinations affecting that choice.

City Delegates Hear Views of Company's Head

GOLDSTREAM OFF

Negotiations between the city and the British Columbia Electric Railway Company Limited took a new turn today with the announcement by the city's utilities committee of results of a conference in Vancouver with W. G. Murrin, president of the company, yesterday.

Possibility of amicable settlement of power questions appeared remote following refusal of Mr. Murrin to recognize the city's recent by-law creating a public utilities committee and the statement by R. W. Beck, utilities expert engaged by the city to advise it on the franchise question, that the course of his future actions was clear.

Mr. Murrin again stated the B.C.E.R. was not interested in providing transportation in Victoria after December 5, unless requested to furnish temporary service pending the establishment of another system.

COMMISSIONER'S STATEMENT
Mayor Andrew McGavin and utility commissioners Aldermen W. Lloyd Morgan and Alderman Ed. Williams issued the following statement today:

"At the outset of the meeting Mr. Murrin refused permission for notes of any kind to be taken otherwise the meeting would be closed.

"Mr. Murrin also advised the Mayor that the company would not recognize the city's recent by-law creating a public utilities committee for the regulation of public utilities stating it was a stupid thing for the City Council to do and that he would not meet the council representatives as a public utilities committee.

"Mr. Murrin definitely stated that a public utilities commission would be created by the provincial government at the next session of the Legislature.

TRANSPORTATION ISSUE
"Mr. Murrin stated his company was not in a position to continue the operation of the street cars after December 5 except that the company would not see the city deprived of transportation facilities pending the operation of buses.

"Regarding Goldstream, Mr. Murrin said his company is no longer interested in Goldstream and did not desire to continue the present agreement.

"The committee did not get an opportunity to discuss the question of electrolysis. The startling results of recent examinations of the city's water mains was one of the reasons for requesting an early meeting with the company but it will now be necessary for the city to submit a claim to the company for damage done to the city's water system.

"Reeve Crouch, Saanich, and Lockley, Esquimalt, accompanied the city representatives."

Mr. Beck submitted his views on the meeting to the Mayor in the following letter:—

DUNCAN PIONEER
BURIED YESTERDAY
Another link with the past was severed with the death Saturday morning, at his home on Menzies Road, Duncan, of John David Donald Blair. He was born on a farm, now a part of the City of Chicago, on December 3, 1860, later going to Colorado, before coming with his parents and two sisters to Cowichan in May, 1884, to make his home. The only means of reaching the district at that time was by boat to Gable Bay, and from there by foot or ox cart over a winding trail to the scattered homes of the early settlers. He has lived on the same farm for 54 years.

In 1898 he participated in the Klondike gold rush, going north to Skagway by boat and overland to the gold fields, traveling down the Yukon River in a small boat made by himself and his brother-in-law, the late John Bell.
In 1895 he married Margaret McDowell, a native daughter of Victoria and a pioneer school-teacher of Sahtlam. She passed away on June 9 last.
Besides his son, John, and daughters Mrs. Wm. Pipe, Mrs. Wm. Grumbach and Mary all of Duncan, he is survived by two sisters, Miss Annie Blair at home and Mrs. Jeanie W. Bell of Yakima, Wash. A third sister, Mrs. Mary Whipple, died in Colorado in 1934. Six grandchildren live at Duncan.
The funeral was held yesterday at Whidden Funeral Parlors, Rev. T. Kinney officiating. Interment was in the family plot at Mountain View Cemetery, Someones. The pallbearers, mostly old-timers or their sons, were: D. R. Hattie, H. D. Evans, P. Auchinauchie, W. Robinson, J. E. Hansen and F. Payne.

Simon Speaks of Wider Pacts

But Churchill Tells British Commons of Europe's Dangers

LONDON (CP)—Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, debating the Munich agreement in the House of Commons today, declared "that only history can decide whether Prime Minister Chamberlain's efforts were a prelude to better times or worse."
Sir John said French approval of the Munich agreement was reflected in the "very great majority vote of approval" which Premier Daladier received in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday.
Sir John asked the members of the Commons to place themselves in the Prime Minister's position at Munich and decide whether they would have rejected the terms of the settlement and "destroyed the last chance of averting war."
The terms were certainly harsh and drastic, and open to all sorts of challenges and criticisms, but Sir John contended they were infinitely better than the one and only alternative. He asked how many members of the house would, if they could, undo what had been done at the four-power meeting. How many he wanted to know, would have rejected the settlement "and flung the world into a cauldron of immediate war?"
"I reject," Sir John said, "the doctrine of the inevitability of war and the theory of the effectiveness of bluff."
The British government, he continued, would work with any or all states toward strengthening peace. He hoped Russia would join in a four-power guarantee of Czech territory, declaring:
"It is most important that she should do so. The government (British) had no intention whatever of trying to exclude Russia from any future settlement of Europe."
ANSWERS EDEN
Sir John took the occasion to answer Anthony Eden directly on his urging that there be no four-power pact for a general European settlement.
"He (Eden) inquired whether the development of the Munich meeting would be the formation of a four-power pact," Sir John said.
"If that question is whether we are willing to enter into friendly discussions with France, Italy and Germany, I say most emphatically we do not rule out that consultation at all."
CHURCHILL SPEAKS
Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, addressing the House, predicted Czechoslovakia would be engulfed in the Nazi orbit—"they may even join in despair or revenge." The other states of middle eastern Europe would make the best possible terms. "Triumphant Nazism" would roll down the Danube and would go on.
France and Great Britain bitterly will regret the bargain they forced on the Czechs at Munich, Mr. Churchill continued.
"I fear we shall find we have deeply compromised the safety and independence of Britain and France," he said. "Britain may yet find herself the satellite of German domination in Europe."
In a matter of months or a few years there might be demands on Great Britain for territory. He appealed to the government to "protect us from Nazi domination." Great Britain must regain her old independence by securing supremacy in the air and build up her defenses "and thus make us an island again."

Testimony on Deaths at Inquiry

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—John Green, St. Thomas lawyer and former Victoria resident, told the Magone royal commission here today there were "five violent deaths in one week" when he was a patient in the violent ward in the Ontario Hospital here. He had protested at being in the ward with violent patients.
Commissioner Clifford Magone interrupted to say: Green, previously had said he was in the violent ward only three days.
"I saw them," Green replied. "I think there were five people in a week. Some of them were pretty terrible deaths."
He said his object in telling this was to show he was in no condition for examination after being in that ward.
Greyhounds kept him awake nights when he was an out-patient of the Ontario Hospital at a London district boarding house in 1937, Green told the commission.
Green, whose complaints resulted in appointment of the commission to investigate Ontario mental hospitals, said a greyhound racetrack was operated at the Bailey boarding house where he stayed for seven weeks a year ago. He said 40 to 50 dogs were kept in a small shed behind the house.
"There were 17 persons in the house—six from this hospital, though they were allowed only four," Green said.
THERE IN HUNDREDS
"They had anywhere from 10 to 100 people there every night and on Sunday they would have several hundred people," he said. "They brought their own dogs. The dogs were troublesome at nights. I didn't care about them, but they kept us awake nights."
He had complained about the dogs before he was called back to the hospital in September, 1937, and placed in the convalescent ward for four months.
His wife offered to obtain his release August 8. Hospital officials wanted her to come and sign a bond, but Green told them she wouldn't come to the hospital. Then they suggested she sign a release slip. Green said it was sent to his wife, but she didn't return it.
Green said he did not drink much until the summer of 1935 when he began "going around to those beer parlors in St. Thomas."
"I had a good alibi because a physician told me to drink malt liquor," he said. "He didn't say how much."
Asked about Dr. Stevenson's reference to him threatening to get a gun, Green said: "That's a lie." He also denied threatening bodily harm to anyone else.
Green wished to speak of the "animus" of the superintendent in inflicting severe punishment. "I telephoned my wife and got six months in the bull pen," Green said.
Good afternoon! Are you supporting the Community Chest?

Service on Bench and For Railways Given By Late Hon. C. P. Fullerton

The death in Winnipeg today of Hon. C. P. Fullerton closed a career which included activities as lawyer, appeal court judge and railway chieftain.
He was born in Amherst, N.S., July 18, 1870, a son of William M. Fullerton and his wife Lucy. He attended public and high school in Amherst and entered Dalhousie University in 1885 when only 15, but two years later he quit his studies because of eye trouble. For three years he worked as tally clerk in lumber camps, then returned to university, only to have his eyes weaken once more.
Finally the eye weakness was overcome and he graduated in law in 1895. Articled in the offices in Halifax of C. S. Harrington (whose son Gordon was Premier of Nova Scotia 1930-33), the young lawyer received one dollar a week and when called as barrister he was getting $10.
He became a partner of the firm, where he remained until 1900, when he moved to Sydney, Cape Breton. He practised at Sydney for six years and at 32 became mayor, the youngest in the town's history. He entered office on a "clean up" ticket, fulfilled his promise and returned two years later to private practice.
MOVED TO WINNIPEG
In 1906 Mr. Fullerton journeyed to Winnipeg to join the legal firm of James (later Sir James) Aikins. He was with the firm for 11 years.
He was a strong Conservative campaigner and a stern opponent of T. C. Norris, Liberal leader, in the 1915 and 1916 campaigns in Manitoba, which produced the "Fullerton charges" and resulted in a royal commission inquiry.
Mr. Norris, despite the Fullerton attacks, remained a friend of his opponent and later became his colleague on the Board of Railway Commissioners.
Mr. Fullerton was appointed to the Manitoba Court of Appeal bench in July, 1917. He resigned in August, 1931, when Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, then Prime Minister, made him chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners, a position which earned him the title "Czar of all the railways."
In December, 1933, Mr. Bennett chose the railway commissioner to head the newly organized board of trustees of the C.N.R. which replaced the board of directors. Mr. Fullerton's task was to cooperate with the Canadian Pacific Railway in eliminating duplication of services.
When the Liberal Party returned to power in 1935 the trustee board was succeeded by the board of directors, and Mr. Fullerton entered once more private law practice in Toronto.
No bitterness was ever held by Mr. Fullerton as he fought through political campaigns. He paid tribute to Mr. Norris, whom he described as "a good, clean, competent fighter" and a man without malice.
While chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners he showed he had no use for red tape and that he was a foe of duplication and waste, unmoved by the pleas of politicians or favor seekers.
He is survived by the widow, formerly Miss Sadie Ferguson, whom he married in Sydney in 1903. There are also one son and three daughters.

bonding the company's rails to the water mains. The city has permitted this by an agreement into the use of Goldstream water by the company. This agreement must have been entered into by approaching the city from its blind side—namely, the lack of a regulatory or other body possessing technical knowledge of the known harmful effect of such bonding.
In the light of these disclosures, I request that the committee submit this report to the city council at once in order that my final reports to the council may be submitted at the earliest possible date. The results of yesterday's meeting clearly define the course of action which I now feel duty bound to recommend if the city is to obtain final and lasting justice in these utility matters."

Play-By-Play

CHICAGO—A play-by-play description of the first game of the world baseball series between the Chicago Cubs and New York Yankees follows:

FIRST INNING
Yankees—Crossett worked the count to three and two and then was called out on strikes. He protested to Umpire Moran but it did no good. Rolfe sent a bouncer off first base and Collins threw to Lee to put him out after slipping in the infield. Henrich was called out on strikes.
No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.
Cubs—Hack fouled off several pitches and then singled sharply to left center for the first hit of the game. Hack was out stealing. Dickey to Crossett. Dickey's throw caught the Cub third baseman three feet off the bag. Crossett threw out Herman. Demaree fanned, swinging at a high pitch.
No runs, one hit, no errors. None left.

SECOND INNINGS
Yankees—Hack took DiMaggio's grounder near third base and threw him out. Gehrig walked on four pitches. Dickey slashed a single into right field and when Cavarretta tried to catch Gehrig with a throw to third, Dickey went to second. Gehrig making third easily. Herman fumbled Selkirk's easy bouncer, Gehrig scoring. Dickey going to third and the batter reaching first safely on the error. It was scored as a run batted in for Selkirk since only one man was out at the time. Gordon's hard roller went through Hack and into left field for a single. Scoring Dickey and sending Selkirk to second. Ruffing grounded to Jurgens, who threw to Herman, forcing Gordon and Herman's throw to Collins retired Ruffing for a double play.
Two runs, two hits, one error. One left.
Cubs—Gehrig took Cavarretta's grounder back of first base and stepped on the bag to retire him. Gordon went back on the grass to take Reynolds' high fly. Hartnett fouled to Dickey off the first base line.
No runs, no hits, no errors. None left.

THIRD INNING
Yankees—Crossett flied to Reynolds in centre. Rolfe sent a long fly to Demaree. Henrich singled over first, Collins taking the ball several yards back of the bag but having no chance to make a play. Henrich was caught stealing. Hartnett to Herman. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Cubs—Collins smashed a long single to right. Jurgens fanned on four pitches. Dickey took Lee's weak roller five feet in front of the plate and threw him out, Collins advancing to second. It was not a sacrifice. Hack smashed a single to right scoring Collins, and went to second on the throw-in to the plate. Herman's liner bounced off Rolfe's glove for a single but when Hack tried to score on the play Crossett, backing up third, recovered the ball and threw him out at the plate. Dickey put the ball on the runner a foot in front of the plate. One run, three hits, no errors, one left.

FOURTH INNING
Yankees—Jurgens made a fine gloved-hand stop of DiMaggio's grounder and threw him out. Gehrig sent a long single to right but was out when he tried to stretch it to a double. Cavarretta to Herman to Jurgens. Dickey singled over second, Herman stopping the ball but being unable to catch him. Selkirk popped to Hack.
No runs, two hits, no errors. One left.

Cubs—When Demaree tried to dodge a pitch the ball hit his bat and bounded to Ruffing who threw him out. Cavarretta struck out. Reynolds popped to Gehrig.
No runs, no hits, no errors. None left.

FIFTH INNING
Yankees—Gordon smashed a double to the left field corner. Demaree racing over but being unable to get his hands on the ball. Ruffing sacrificed. Hartnett to Collins. Crossett struck out swinging at a low third strike. Herman threw out Rolfe.
No runs, one hit, no errors. One left.

Cubs—The clouds were heavy overhead as the Cubs came to bat in the fifth. Hartnett fanned. Dickey dropped the third strike and had to throw the Cub manager out at first. Gordon made a sensational stop of Collins' grounder with his back to the plate and threw him out. Jurgens struck out. No runs. No hits. No errors. None left.

SIXTH INNING
Yankees—Henrich slashed a double off the wall in right. He slipped rounding first and just beat Cavarretta's throw to second. DiMaggio flied to Cavarretta in right. Henrich holding second. Gehrig struck out. The count

Call on Czechs
For Reparations

German Demand Extending to 1918 Is New Difficulty

By LOUIS LOCHNER
Associated Press Foreign Staff
BERLIN—A Foreign Office spokesman said today the international commission supervising cessation of the Sudetenland to Germany was confronted by new difficulties in delimitation of the fifth zone of occupation and "the question of reparations for injustices inflicted by the Czechs on the Sudetens since 1918."
As the commission resumed its discussions today the spokesman indicated progress might be difficult from this point on.
"Hitherto it was easy, as the four zones (to be occupied by the German army before October 8, were already fixed at Munich and only certain technical details remained," he said.
"The fifth zone will prove more difficult. Also there is the question of reparations... Previously an inspired source close to the Foreign Office indicated such reparations would be demanded of Czechoslovakia just as soon as the Sudetenland was "completely in German hands."

The reparations, it was said, will be claimed not only on grounds of justice but also in the interests of peace.
This source pointed out that it was essential that conditions be created for an amicable relationship between Germany and Czechoslovakia. Each nation, it was argued, desires to live as good a neighbor to the other.
But a semi-official commentator asserted this goal could not be reached if "Czechizations" in the Sudeten areas undertaken since 1918—when the Czechoslovak republic was born—were overlooked.
It was indicated Germany would not consider the Sudeten question solved unless reparations were paid.
AMOUNT NOT STATED
There was no indication immediately of the amount of reparations to be claimed or on what basis or how they are to be paid.
Observers recalled that point six of the eight-point program proclaimed by Konrad Henlein, the Sudeten fuhrer, at Carlsbad April 24 called for "removal of injustices inflicted since 1918 and reparations for the damages thereby caused."
During the four-power conference at Munich last week, a German government spokesman said "that is a question for later discussion," when asked whether reparations for damages allegedly suffered by the Sudetens had figured in the conference.
Neutral observers believed Hitler's reparations claims would furnish a powerful incentive for Czechoslovakia to fall into line economically with Germany as soon as possible.

"Still Trying to Get Somewhere, Buddy?"

Press Freedom Defended

Place of Newspapers in Bulwarking Canada's Democracy
Topic of Address By H. P. Duchemin, K.C., in London, Ont.LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Press control laws "sterilize the soil from which democracy derives its sustenance," H. P. Duchemin, K.C., managing director of the Sydney Post Record and president of the Canadian Press, said in an address on "Our Free Newspapers" before the Canadian Club here today. Mr. Duchemin represented the Canadian Press in its successful appearance before the Privy Council in London against the Alberta Press Act.That act was described by the publisher as the most drastic press control bill submitted to a British legislature since the right of unlicensed printing was affirmed by the English House of Commons in 1695. Its provisions were "mandatory as well as prohibitive, its penal sections ruthless and crushing," he said.
In the final analysis all press control laws involving either censorship or dictation of the printed word must be regarded as the efforts of established authority to direct and regiment the trend of human thought, Mr.
Duchemin said. "It is an understatement that such laws are repugnant to democracy. . . . On the other hand the rigid, ruthless, effectual control of all printed publications is even more essential to a totalitarian state than the absolute command of its military forces."

UNWRITTEN RULE

Tracing the history of press freedom, Mr. Duchemin said that in British countries liberty of the press rests solely but securely on an unwritten constitutional foundation.It was "based on the vital postulate that representative institutions cannot exist in any country where the right of free public expression through the printed and spoken word is not conceded to every law-abiding citizen."Nothing could be farther from the truth than the "distorted conception" that the liberty of the press means a monopoly for the newspapers, or an opportunity for protected publishers to prosecute a lucrative business.
"There are two conclusive
answers to this," he said. "One is that the publishing business is not journalism in any more accurate sense than the shipping business is navigation. The other is that journalists have precisely the same rights, are subject to precisely the same restrictions, in giving expression to their thoughts in public print, as belong to all their fellow citizens.
The muzzling of the press might injure journalists but little and publishers not at all, but it would be subversive of a vital instrument of democracy and destructive of a priceless possession of the plain people."

IMPROVEMENT SEEN

Few persons realized how wonderfully the newspapers of Canada had improved in the quality and scope of their service to the country since the years preceding the Great War. Their coverage of interprovincial news was incomparably better, more compre-hensive, less discolored with the taint of propaganda, more accurate and informative than it ever was in the past.There were few papers left in Canada that could fairly be classed as party organs, and still fewer, if any, that did not place their sincere conception of the public well above mere political considerations in their daily treatment of public questions.The change for the better had been brought about by three main causes—the purge of the Great War, the trend toward newspaper mergers in small towns and the broadening influence of the cooperative exchange of news through the instrumentality of the Canadian Press.

NATIONAL SERVICE

Mr. Duchemin briefly outlined the structure and functions of the Canadian Press, explaining it is operated without any purpose of financial gain, is owned and controlled by the daily newspapers of the Dominion and is a "genuinely national institution in the most complete sense of the word."The co-operative news-gathering organization had been in existence for 21 years as an unbroken, Dominion-wide organization, and it had kept in step with the progress of the times.
He referred to the news bulletins it supplies to the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.In conclusion he spoke of the news press of Canada as "the weapon of freedom among a free people. The stirring story of the long and finally triumphant struggle for liberty of the press belongs to past history. The duty of today, the task of the future is to conserve that freedom by honoring its just limitations by cultivating that restraint which is the symbol of strength."

Follow Father's Footsteps

ONE OF THE REQUESTS ABOUT to be made to Prime Minister Chamberlain is that his government summon a world conference "to consider removal of the economic and political grievances which imperil peace." If this proposal means anything at all, it means that the time is now ripe for the application of broad principles in the interests of a new international trade deal, the reduction of those tariff obstacles which at present seriously interfere with the free flow of commodities between nation and nation, and which may be included among the major irritations that produce suspicion—and, eventually, war. It is fitting, moreover, that the lead in such a commendable cause should come from the head of the government at Westminster. It would be complementary to the long view adopted as part of the argument in favor of sacrificing a small nation like Czechoslovakia so that war might be avoided, so that civilization "as we know it"—to use Mr. Chamberlain's own term—might be saved.

After a fairly lengthy excursion into the labyrinthine realms of medium-high and high protection, it may not be as simple for the present British Prime Minister to assume the mantle of a Cobden as it was, for example, to lead the crusade which finally won the hearts of the Nazi-Fascist Olympians at Munich. Mr. Chamberlain may consult the family escutcheon and tarry awhile in the corridor of time. For was not his distinguished father once a radical and a republican? Did he not become the archpriest of Tariff Reform, the advocate of imperial federation, and an empire Zollerwein? It is not necessary, of course, to dwell on the popular verdict rendered by the electorate of Great Britain on that vital issue in 1906. However, the great mass of the people believed that a few of the selfish—the few to whom it did not matter whether a four-pound loaf cost fourpence or two shillings, and fourpence—could put up with the disappointment of hopes blotted.

The right honorable son of the Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain now can survey the Conservative Party's experiments, not excepting the Ottawa pacts, with Britain's post-war tariff structure and apportion their influence on the increasing adverse trade balance, the addition to the ranks of the unemployed of 500,000 in the last 12 months—in spite of the tremendous acceleration in the production of armaments. The Prime Minister may recall, too, that economists of international renown issued their warning against tariff madness 10 years ago, and predicted the universal wave of economic nationalism would eventually wash up war on several national doorsteps. Since the British financial "crisis" election of 1931, cabinets of which Mr. Chamberlain has been a member have witnessed the miserable course of events in Manchuria, in Ethiopia, in Spain and in China. With the application of a 1938 streamlined formula of statecraft, however, a really first-class war was staved off last week. So, with the "Peace of Munich" an accomplished fact and the Anglo-Teutonic deal signed, sealed and delivered, the call for a new world economic conference to find a way to abolish one of the chief causes of international strife should be readily issued by a government enjoying such an overwhelming Parliamentary majority as that over which Mr. Chamberlain presides.

True, an approach to this method of international "appeasement" as a corollary of the temporary disposal of the Sudeten German problem would involve the abandonment of the fiscal doctrine with which a fond parent endowed the present British Prime Minister in his early manhood; true, he would be compelled to embrace at least a substantial part of the political philosophy which launched his father on his great career in the public service of his country. But he could, nevertheless, discover adequate justification for such a course as he contemplated the family precedent, and pointed to changed conditions in a changing world. And, what is more arresting still, he could keep before him the vision of the "Peace of Munich" as the guiding light toward the final stage of his great mission. Thus, linked with the determination to preserve international amity by the ancient custom of written treaty and pledged word, might well be the more effective guarantee of peace which the removal of all economic and political greed would furnish.

Dream Castles to Earth

LIFE MAGAZINE PERFORMED AN excellent service recently by devoting some 23 pages to bringing the average citizen to a realization of how the average man's problem of house building is changing. The magazine points out that financing a house is both easier and cheaper than ever before. Also, that for all the customary talk of high building costs, costs today average a good 10 per cent below the costs of 1926, which has been considered an "average" year. The article emphasizes a fact that few have realized: that the business of designing and building houses has made, relatively, as great strides in the last 12 years as has the business of designing and building automobiles. By way of demonstration, the magazine prints pictures and plans for the houses that men in various income groups can buy.

This display is abundantly worth study. It attacks what looks like the key log of this building jam, particularly in some other parts of Canada—the ordinary family man's failure to realize just what he can get for his money nowadays. A campaign based on this point might do much to speed the revival in construction activity for which the country has so long been waiting, and upon which British Columbia's future prosperity as a lumber producer is so largely dependent.

Their Problem

SEVERAL CANADIAN NEWSPAPERS and not a few Conservative politicians have been telling us repeatedly during the last few months that Mr. Mackenzie King has sold the British Columbia orchard and lumber industries "down the river" to the United States. They have tried to imply that the trade discussion between Great Britain and the United States and between the republic and this country is one of the most sinister economic threats to this province's commercial future ever conceived by the mind of man. They see in their waking hours and in their dreams by night not only a Canadian Prime Minister stirring a pot of devil's broth, but also actually co-operating with a Tory government in Great Britain and a friendly administration at Washington in the interests of greater business in its widest possible sense. They even see a gloating smile on Mr. King's face as he strives to apply the fundamental principle of the greatest good for the greatest number.

But these critics of the King Government, that section of the press which breaks out in an international rash one day and in pimplies of economic parochialism the next, will probably find it a little difficult to reconcile some aspects of their argument—as they relate to these current trade negotiations—with the striking expanse of view which, for example, they hailed with delight as Prime Minister Chamberlain figuratively waved Czechoslovakia on to the rapids of the international river—to save our civilization "as we know it." We can almost hear the Vancouver Daily Province getting ready to shout for the 'nth time that Mr. Mackenzie King has sold out British Columbia's apple and lumber export business to the United States. And the idea of the possibility of Mr. Chamberlain calling a world conference in which British Columbia is figuratively expected to play the role of an economic Czechoslovakia—well, it simply isn't done!

Community Chest

ALL THE ARGUMENTS THAT WERE advanced in support of the initial Greater Victoria Community Chest campaign last year hold good for the second "drive" which is about to be undertaken. Their strength is reinforced, moreover, not only by the fact that the 1937 appeal was an outstanding success in itself, but also because its promoters and those responsible for the administration of the funds collected were enabled to carry out the program upon which they based their original appeal.

On this occasion the definite figure set is $28,000, a little more than last year, and the amount represents the working capital for 1939 of 24 social agencies and organizations ministering to the needy of this and surrounding communities. We bespeak again the same generous response as that with which the large staff of voluntary workers met 12 months ago. It is to be hoped, however, that on this occasion, with the knowledge that the Community Chest is both economically practical and a humanitarian necessity, a still wider range of donations will be marked down on the records at the end of the campaign.

A tree has sprouted in a beer parlor in an eastern community, and the patrons are guessing what kind of a tree it is going to be. Obviously, the answer is a hickory tree.

A moving picture producer announces he will make a picture based on the history of moving pictures. A kind of colossal tragic-comedy-newsreel-historical-western-costume-epic, with music.

Speaking to students at Wesleyan University, President James L. McConaughy said it was practically impossible for any man with a sense of humor to become a dictator. Unfortunately, a sense of humor cannot be acquired like a college education. This being a great pioneering age in the field of producing substitutes for goods of which there is a scarcity, why does someone not work on a synthetic sense of the ridiculous?

CONVICTED BY HIMSELF

From Portland Oregonian.

When Prime Minister Chamberlain, in the course of his report to Parliament, announced that rearmament of the British Empire will be continued on an increasing scale, he gave the lie to his own claim in regard to the Munich pact.

He has said the pact gives "peace with honor." The order for an increase in rearmament proves the pact was signed under pressure from what, it was feared, was a superior force.

He has said the pact assures peace for this generation. If he really believes that, would he be in such haste to buckle on more revolvers?

He is acting a falsehood. The pact was signed under the threat of force, and as was said on this page immediately afterward, the incident has hardened the democracies to extraordinary sacrifices for their own armament. It would not be surprising if Britain resorts to universal military service.

KAR BABY

THERE IS ONE CREATURE who won't like the turn of events in Europe, won't relish the end of the war scare. I am referring, of course, to the white-faced calf at Michael O'Shea's place. The white-faced calf arrived there just before the time Hitler was going to march into Europe.

Michael said it should be vealed before it ate more food than it was worth, and at this his young son Pat was exceedingly alarmed. Pat had adopted the calf, fed it skim milk, and let it butt him about the barnyard until a great affection developed between them.

But this is no time of year to start raising a calf, who'll likely freeze in the winter, so the baby's doom was pronounced. And the very day when he was to be executed (Pat being sunk in low despair), Hitler started to march into Czechoslovakia, and the ranchers around the O'Shea country would gather in the store in the evening to talk about raising a battalion to fight for democracy, or for Czechoslovakia or something—anything so long as it was a fight.

This saved the baby calf. When war comes beef prices zoom up, sometimes reach eight cents a pound on the hoof. Nobody kills a beef animal, even though it's a baby, if there's a war in prospect. But hardly had the calf been relieved, and Pat made happy, than the peace of Munich was concluded and Michael had to pronounce the death sentence again. Little did Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Hitler know what their decisions in Munich would mean to the world. Little did they realize what they were doing to the baby calf.

Well, in the end it was rescued from the peace of Munich at the very last moment. Old Annie, the Indian woman from up the road, agreed to take it and raise it in exquisite comfort inside her cabin with her, as she has raised innumerable calves before. But it was a close call. Even calves up in the Cariboo can't escape the danger of Hitlerism.

WISE HINDSIGHT

AS WAS EXPECTED, the people of wise afterthought are cursing Mr. Chamberlain for the peace of Munich. Their curses are based on a very large and dangerous assumption. Their assumption is that if Mr. Chamberlain had refused to deal with Hitler, either it wouldn't have been necessary to fight for Czechoslovakia or that if we had fought we would have won easily enough. Neither assumption is safe.

The chances are nine out of 10 that the consequences of the war would have been a thousand times as bad as the surrender of Czechoslovakia. This peace has partially destroyed one small and unimportant nation. The war would have destroyed nearly every nation in it. The chief critics of Mr. Chamberlain know that, but they are really sore about something else entirely. They are sore because he has turned down Russia and Communism. They did not love Czechoslovakia less but Russia more. And in the back of their heads was always the belief that if the world were plunged once more into the chaos of war out of it would spring the Communist state on the Russian model here and everywhere, fully armed and equipped, working smoothly, as with abundance for all.

Mr. Chamberlain probably foresaw that also and he didn't like it, and neither would most of us. But because Mr. Chamberlain didn't like it he is a traitor. A traitor to what? A traitor, of course, to Communism.

But, they say, he is also a traitor to democracy. There is another large assumption here. It assumes that democracy would have been saved in a world war. And many of the very men who say this say in the next breath that Communism would come out of such a war, and if Communism is democratic in Russia today I will drink a gallon of vodka, neat.

The probabilities are wilder than this. The probabilities are that if Canada went to war and had to repudiate all her debts at the end of it, we should have Fascism, the very opposite of what the Communists want. We should end up with a dictator because parliamentary governments wouldn't be quick enough to pull us out of the mess. The dictator would probably be Mr. Hepburn. Mr. Duplessis or Mr. Aberhart. How you would love it.

European dinner table conversation: I gas maybe it hasn't enough spies in it; pass the assault . . . Tanks . . . It's plane this leg has been cooked too long . . . Oh, I didn't mean the leg, it was the armament . . .

Note on Czechoslovakia's Plight. Exhumed By Junius Cooper from Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's "The Beleaguered City":

I have read, in some old marvelous tale
Some legend strange and vague,
That a midnight host of spectres pale
Beleaguered the walls of Prague.

Beside the Moldau's rushing stream,
With the moon moon overhead,
There stood, as in an awful dream,
The army of the dead.

SONG FOR OURSELVES

Czechoslovakia lynched on a swastika cross!
Blow, bitter winds, blow!
Blow, bitter winds, blow!
Nails in her hands and nails in her feet,
Left to die slow!
Left to die slow!
Czechoslovakia! Ethiopia! Spain!
One after another!
One after another!
Where will the long snake of greed strike again?
Will it be here, brother?

GOOD NEWS

To the Editor:—It is certainly good news to see in the press that such an influential body as the Dominion Chamber of Commerce has appealed for greater freedom from government interference.

This resolution has been itemized into a number of points, of which the first two are as follows:

1. Few restrictions as possible upon individual effort.
2. The most favorable condition possible for agriculture.

Unfortunately in this province the conditions applying to these items are most unsatisfactory, as the operations of marketing control take away reasonable freedom and liberty, and act as a brake on the development of initiatives.

At present the Vegetable Marketing Board takes the position that a farmer is not the owner of the potatoes or produce that he grows, and does not permit him to sell his own possessions.

This system is responsible for the following:

- (a) It cost farmers thousands of dollars in compulsory contributions to the board, causing in some cases a tax as high as $40 an acre.
- (b) It endeavors to set up quotas and price control, as against the economic law of supply and demand, thus affecting consumers' interests.
- (c) It is administered by an inefficient board, who were responsible last year for an excessive price spread between producers and consumers.
- (d) It is a distinct liability to the settlement of land, as new producers have no rights on the market.

It is certainly to be hoped that such an unsound and unworkable system will be abolished at the earliest possible date.

ABLE TO BUDGET

To the Editor:—It gave me great pleasure to read the Mayor's splendid letter in the newspaper in support of the Community Chest. In it he mentions that the social agencies are able "to budget," and know where they stand financially, and thereby are able to devote the whole of their energies to their real work.

To me this is the crux of the whole situation and there can be no doubt that this is the only logical manner in which to cope with the tremendous demands put on social and charitable work these days.

With unemployment and all its attendant evils, the calls on various organizations for assistance are very great, but the Community Chest does guarantee to these societies a steady and unfailing percentage of the money collected.

To householders and to collectors alike may they support and encourage the excellent work of the Community Chest in Victoria.

RUN BUSES ON SAWDUST
To the Editor:—I would refer Mr. Mullard to my former letter with regard to the buses versus trams, but would like to draw his attention to the fact that the most modern transportation systems do not use gas, at all.

Producer gas from sawdust or other suitable refuse is used to run an explosion motor coupled to an electric dynamo as power plant.

The electricity from this plant is used to drive the propulsion motor on the wheels of the buses.

This is the most economical method of using waste material to produce motor transportation. If the buses have more than 60 seats it is economical enough to have individual producers on each bus.

Another advantage is that the present street car operators can run these buses as the driving equipment does not vary from the present in any extent.

If this system were adopted the fares might possibly even be lowered as refuse is used.

EXPERIENCE IN ENGLAND.

"With Malice Toward Some," by Margaret Halsey, is the diary of an American professor's wife recording the author's experience during a six months' residence in England, with side trips to the Scandinavian countries and Paris. Mrs. Halsey found much in England that pleased her—cathedrals, scenery, and particularly the manners of the lower classes, "the ungentry"—but she viewed with alarm English food, the conversation at polite dinner parties, the treatment of servants, etc. Her prose is of a quality that should make even an Englishman squirm with envy. She has charm and humor and she breathes fire. (Curiously enough, for all her faults, England has never been made to seem more wrong giving a whirl than when Miss Halsey has finished with her.) The book has now arrived at the Victoria Public Library.

Credit Men Hold Banquet

Seventh Birthday
Dinner Attended By
250 at Empress Hotel

The Credit Granters' Association of Victoria celebrated its seventh birthday in the Empress Hotel ballroom last night with a banquet attended by more than 250 men and women representing almost every line of business in the city and sister credit organizations on the mainland of the province and in the state of Washington.

A proper community credit policy, with the full co-operation of all merchants, had a vital place in retailing by preventing the overselling of the customer beyond his income and his ability to pay, the meeting was told by E. de Witt, president of the Associated Retail Credit Bureaus of the Northwest and secretary of the Credit Bureau of Seattle.

In a brief address Mr. de Witt stressed the need of all businessmen who shared in a credit bureau making immediate and full reports on all credit transactions. In this way overselling and consequent losses to merchants could be avoided, he said. He quoted the results of different credit methods in various United States cities as proof of the need of a community policy.

SELLING PROFESSION

"Business is no longer an occupation—it is a profession," said W. C. Mainwaring, Vancouver, general sales manager of the British Columbia Electric Railway Company, in a talk on "Present Trends in Merchandizing."

"Never before has there been so much romance, human interest and fascination in any field of endeavor as there is in business today," he said.

Science and experience had placed wonderful new tools in the hand of the merchant, and through them, with the stimulus of competition, business had completely changed its relations with the public.

But the new relationship placed a big responsibility of service on the businessman, he said.

Among the changes which he mentioned were the increased emphasis on service in addition to sales which the customer had come to expect; the interest of the public in the relations of employer and employee; the greater appreciation of the real values of merchandise on the part of the buyer, and a new artistic appreciation fostered in part by the motion pictures.

CREDIT MAN'S PART

The credit man was also a salesman, Mr. Mainwaring said, because his work could vitally effect the goodwill of the buyer towards his store.

In discussing physical merchandising methods, Mr. Mainwaring said the essentials were artistic, modern and changing window displays, backed by an equally well-arranged display inside the store and supported by good advertising.

In spite of the many new media which had arisen in recent years the newspaper was still the finest advertising field, he said.

Leo Evenden, president of the association, said its membership had increased from 60 to 267 since 1932 and that business turnover had been increased in the city and credit losses reduced through its work.

Pierre Timp sang three songs, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Timp. W. C. Hudson led the meeting in community singing, with Cecil Heaton at the piano.

Oak Bay Backs Community Chest

"For one reason or another, which need not be specified, the calls for financial help and charitable assistance are not as numerous in Oak Bay as in some of what I might call the other parts of Greater Victoria," Reeve R. R. Taylor remarked today in speaking of the Community Chest drive. "But our people recognize that we are all members of one community in such matters," he added, "and I know are eager and anxious to do their bit to insure the success of the campaign now being made by the Community Chest of Greater Victoria."

"They are proud to note the large number of Oak Bay residents actively working for the chest, and feel that on that account, if for no other, every man and woman in this municipality must do everything to insure the success of this present campaign of the Community Chest of Greater Victoria."

"I know I speak for my whole council, and indeed for every man and woman in Oak Bay when I say to the ladies and gentlemen working so hard in such a good cause, 'Success will be yours, for you deserve it.'"

Mrs. and Mrs. Malcolm S. T. (Ted) Fraser, who were married at St. Alban's Church, Port Alberni, on Saturday evening last. The bride was the former Miss Mabel F. Kemmis of Victoria.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Mrs. Guy Langton and her daughter, Miss Hilda Langton, left this afternoon for California to spend the winter months.

Miss Catherine Murray, St. Ann Street, has returned from a trip to the British Isles, where she visited relatives.

Mrs. Jean Carlson of Vancouver is visiting in Victoria as the guest of Mrs. S. Smith, Mary Street.

Word has been received that Miss Eileen N. Hincks of Langford, who underwent an operation 10 days ago at Burns Lake Hospital for acute appendicitis with complications, is progressing as well as can be expected.

Miss C. J. Whillans, Stanley Apartments, who has been spending the last three weeks visiting with relatives and friends in Calgary, Edmonton and Tofield, Alberta, returned home yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Maidment motored from Calgary and are visiting Mrs. Maidment's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Goodman, Johnson Street, and her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Goodman of "Twin Oaks," Langford.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Beckett, Sayward Avenue, Victoria, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mildred Victoria, to Colin Barwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Barwick, Victoria. The wedding will take place quietly in the near future.

Mrs. Donald McAdie presided over a well-attended meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Children's Aid Society recently, when final arrangements were made for the linen shower, which will be held at the home of Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, 2551 Beach Drive, Thursday, October 13, from 3 to 5.30.

Twelve tables of bridge were in play at the Gorge Vale Golf Club last night, when the ladies' committee held the first of a series of bridge parties. Mrs. C. H. Cross convened the arrangements and the clubhouse was effectively decorated with Michaelmas daisies, African marigolds and chrysanthemums. The prizewinners were: Contract, Mrs. R. Wallis and Mr. H. S. Rourke; auction, Miss Isabel Jarvis and Mrs. M. Barry. A buffet supper was served.

Yesterday evening, Miss May Wootton entertained with three tables of bridge in compliment to Miss Marianne McMicking, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. E. McMicking, whose marriage to Mr. George Powell will take place shortly in Regina, and who will leave tomorrow for the prairie city. The affair was held at the home of Miss Wootton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Wootton, Victoria Drive, Oak Bay. The guest of honor was presented with a corsage bouquet of pink carnations on her arrival, and autumn flowers adorned the home.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cameron of Runnymede Avenue, have returned home after a motor trip through the Okanagan and the State of Washington.

Miss Hope Grant, Richmond Road, and Miss Kitty Wood, Robertson Street, who have been visiting Miss Wood's parents near High River, Alberta, will return home on Saturday.

Mrs. Parkes, Plumstead Street, Esquimalt, entertained on Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Malttravers, who was celebrating her 88th birthday. Miss "Teeny" Sadler presented Mrs. Malttravers with a lovely corsage of roses, buds and larkspur. The Esquimalt Community Club sent a pretty bouquet of chrysanthemums with happy birthday greetings. Many gifts were received.

Mrs. Malttravers has lived in Esquimalt over 40 years. Despite her 88 years she is enjoying excellent health, and received the guests in a charming manner. The guests included: Rev. and Mrs. A. Bischoff, Mr. and Mrs. R. McVie, Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. Emerson, Mrs. Kinch, Mrs. Sadler, Miss Marjorie Kinch, Miss Teeny Sadler, Mrs. Parkes made a lovely birthday cake. Miss Teeny Sadler assisted Mrs. Parkes in serving tea.

Mrs. Roy Barnes and Mrs. G. L. Sherwood were joint hostesses yesterday evening at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Sherwood, Lee Avenue, in honor of Miss Dorothy Ellison, whose marriage to Mr. Samuel Smith will take place shortly. On her arrival, the guest of honor was presented with a corsage bouquet of talliesman roses and violets by little Miss Beverly May Barnes and the gifts, contained in a doll's house, were presented by little Miss Dianne Sherwood. Games and contests formed the evening's amusement, the prizes being won by Mrs. Jean Carlson of Vancouver and Mrs. A. Macdonald. The guests included Miss Dorothy Ellison, Mrs. A. Ellison, Mrs. J. Smith, Mrs. Butcher, Mrs. Arnott, Mrs. A. Macdonald, Mrs. A. Rudge, Mrs. K. Campbell, Mrs. J. Bacon, Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. J. Carlson of Vancouver, Mrs. R. Bates, Mrs. J. Florence and Mrs. W. Holman.

In compliment to Miss Betty Couch, whose marriage will take place this week, Mrs. H. Woodford and Miss Mildred Carter were joint hostesses yesterday evening at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Miss Carter's sister, Mrs. A. G. Joyce, 1632 Ross Street. The gifts were placed in a decorated trunk bearing the bride-elect's name in silver letters. The home was decorated with autumn foliage and the supper table was adorned with tall pink tapers in silver holders, with pink and yellow streamers suspended from the chandelier, adding to the decorations. Contests formed the evening's amusement, the prizes being won by Mrs. W. Hadden, Mrs. T. Restell, Mrs. R. Renfrew and Mrs. M. Carter. The guests included Miss Betty Couch, Mrs.

"Remnants" Dance Was Success

Spencer's Employees Hosts to 300 At Crystal Garden

About 300 guests danced under enjoyable auspices at the Crystal Garden last night when Spencer's Remnants, whose membership comprises the employees of David Spencer Ltd., who saw service overseas during the Great War, entertained at their annual dance.

Miss Sara Spencer acted as hostess, extending a welcome to the members of the club and their friends, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Spencer and Miss Myfanwy Spencer were also present. Mr. F. W. Crouch acted as master of ceremonies, and the reception committee included Messrs. R. Milburn, Roberts, Groom, Thompson, Ross and Street.

A number of visitors from the Vancouver "Remnants" group attended the dance, together with several members of the Vancouver branch of the Sports Club, these visitors including: Mrs. Wright, Messrs. J. Hayes, J. Leonard, E. Worsley, A. Anderson, T. Higginson and E. Groom. Dancing was carried on till an early hour, the excellent program by Len Acres and his orchestra including oldtime dances, medleys and special spotlight dances. Supper was served in the lower hall.

Time and money well spent—see the flower show Saturday, Angus Campbell Store; only 10 cents.

V.O.N. Nursed Many New Patients

At a special meeting of the board of the V.O.N., called at the home of the president, Miss Fitzgibbon, St. Charles Street, a resolution was passed that the next regular meeting should be held on November 8.

A special appeal was made by the president for the entire board's assistance in the Community Chest campaign, which starts October 31.

Miss Creaser, head nurse, reported the following work accomplished by the nurses for the month of September: 847 visits to 128 new patients, consisting of: 54 to pre-natal, 134 to mothers and babies, 13 to tuberculosis, 85 other communicables, 24 cancer, 69 chronic cases, 190 others, 278 were health instruction visits.

There were five well-baby clinics held, with a total attendance of 139 babies; two child guidance clinics attended and three prenatal sewing classes were conducted.

The members of the Sir Matthew Begbie Baillie Chapter of the I.O.D.E. donated and bottled four gallons of cod liver oil for distribution. All other donations were gratefully acknowledged.

Final arrangements for the annual rummage sale to be held at Angus Campbell's store on October 15 were discussed.

While the V.O.N. is a member of the Community Chest, and receives the major portion of its budget direct from that source, the agencies are all encouraged to provide earned income, whenever possible. By means of this rummage sale the annual income of the order is increased, thus enabling more visits to be made to patients. This annual event is looked forward to by many families on meagre budgets, to whom good value is given for the money received. It is hoped the general public will again help to make it the success it deserves.

Lodge Princess Alexandra, Daughters of England, will meet on Thursday at 7.30 in the S.O.E. Hall. The memorial service will be held and all members are asked to attend. After the meeting a court whist card party will take place, with Mrs. C. Smith as convener. The annual bazaar will be held on Thursday, November 17.

St. Alban's Girls' W.A. held a meeting on Tuesday evening, at which Miss Dorothy Cox gave an interesting talk on the Naas River Indians. A silver tea and sale of home cooking will be held at the home of Mrs. J. M. Stansby, 1704 Bay Street, on Thursday afternoon at 3.

To Finish Work On New Wing Of Home

Contractors Start at Aged Women's Home Tomorrow

The work of finishing the remaining six rooms on the first floor of the new wing of the Aged and Infirm Women's Home will be started by the contractors, Luney Bros., tomorrow morning.

Announcement was made to this effect at the monthly meeting of the committee held in the home yesterday afternoon, Mrs. W. L. Clay presiding. The committee's decision to go ahead with the work was inspired by the increasing number of applications being made for accommodation at the home.

But the funds are still short of the amount required to finish the work, and the committee hopes that some generous friends will assist in this good work on behalf of aged and infirm women by sending donations to the secretary, Mrs. A. D. Whittier, so that the building may be finished free of debt.

Some of the young members of the Toc H have been assisting the committee by clearing the lot on the west side of the building, and their help has been much appreciated.

Routine business was attended to and all accounts ordered paid. Members present were Mesdames F. W. Vincent, E. Heddie, Harold Grant, D. C. Sabiston, G. A. Lister, D. Scott, A. D. Whittier and Miss O'Brien. Committee for the month, Mrs. D. Scott, Miss E. O'Brien and Mrs. W. Grant.

Clubwomen's News

Notices intended for publication in this column on Saturdays must be written and handed in to this office not later than Friday afternoon.

A meeting of St. Luke's W.A. will be held Thursday in the parish hall at 2.30 p.m.

The October meeting of Central W.C.T.U. will be held in the Y.W.C.A. tomorrow afternoon at 3, when reports of delegates to the recent provincial convention will be given.

The Robert Burns McMicking Chapter I.O.D.E. met last evening, a good attendance of members hearing the reports which were read. Mrs. Lella Parsons was appointed child and family welfare convener. Donations were voted to the Mary Croft cot at the Queen Alexandra Solarium and the endowment fund. The next meeting will take the form of a social and auction sale. Mrs. W. Williams thanked Mrs. Nelson Hicks and Miss G. Sheret for convening the recent fashion show, which was very successful. Miss G. Townsend was also thanked for taking charge of the recent contest.

The regular meeting of Group B of First United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Fred McGregor Monday afternoon. Mrs. J. A. Skellern, the president, presided and conducted the devotional period. The business discussed included the new arrangement for collecting the membership fees and the method of calling in the calendars in December. Mrs. C. N. Westwood reported on the final arrangements for a guest tea to be held at the church, Wednesday, October 12, at 3, and Mrs. J. Lane outlined the plans for a home-cooking booth at this event. Dr. McCleod, who was visiting the group for the first time, spoke briefly. Announcement was made that a Christmas supply booth would also be on display at the tea. Several new members were introduced and a social half-hour was enjoyed at the close of the meeting. Tea was poured by Mrs. W. T. Straith and Mrs. L. MacDonnell, assisting in serving were Mrs. N. Whittaker, Mrs. C.

N. Westwood, Mrs. J. R. Nicolson and Miss Doreen McGregor.

The monthly meeting of Pro Patria W.A., Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., was held in the Eagle's Hall, Government Street, last night. The president, Mrs. D. Muir, was in the chair and a large attendance of members were present. Mrs. Hudson, a new member, was welcomed. Mrs. D. Martin's resignation as chairman of the ways and means committee was accepted with regret, and Mrs. M. Minnis was appointed in her place. Mrs. Minnis reported on the old-time dances held each Wednesday in the Forrester's Hall and stated prizes would be given each week. Mrs. J. C. Newberry was appointed general convener for the indoor garden party on November 15. Mrs. H. Baker and Mrs. J. Quinn will have charge of the afternoon teas. Mrs. J. Hodge flowers, Mrs. W. Renfrew and Mrs. T. C. Davies candy stall, Mrs. B. Ripley house-housie, Mrs. Laxton mile of pennies, Mrs. W. Campbell superfluties, Mrs. J. Smith and Mrs. Watson ice cream, Mrs. M. Minnis and Mrs. A. Gornall home cooking, Mrs. E. T. Davies, Mrs. M. Haines aprons, Mrs. Rowland lady with 1,000 pockets. There will also be tea-cup reading. The stall holders are asked to attend a special meeting in the Eagle's Hall at 7.30, October 18. A social meeting will also be held October 18 at 8 when cards and house-housie will be played. Mrs. B. Ripley and Mrs. J. Hodge reported visiting both hospitals last month and they will be sick visitors again this month.

At the well-attended Thanksgiving meeting of the Women's Missionary Society, Victoria West United Church, held in the parlor of the church Monday afternoon, Mrs. Perry presided, with Mrs. Graham leading the helpful devotional. During the business period, an encouraging letter was received from Mrs. Day Washington, branch president. The kind invitation of Mrs. L. A. Young was accepted that the November meeting be held at her home. Mrs. J. H. Croft, treasurer, gave a good financial report. Much appreciated and enjoyed was the appropriate vocal solo by Mrs. J. Angus, accompanist Mrs. Young, Miss Helen Kirkwood, Y.W.C.A. secretary, who addressed the meeting, told of a recent trip to Japan, in which story she portrayed the friendliness of that people, now so misrepresented to the outside world through their dominant war lords. A vote of thanks was given Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Angus and Miss Kirkwood in a motion by Mrs. Young. Mrs. Perry welcomed the many visitors present. A splendid thank offering was received. The meeting closed, Mrs. Harry Watson and Mrs. Walter Brown, hostesses, served tea at the flower-decorated tables.

Annual Children's Party Arranged

The monthly meeting of the Lake Hill Women's Institute was held on Monday afternoon at 2.30, with Mrs. W. Webster, president, in the chair. The visitors were: Mrs. Wallace, Barnston W.I., Lancashire, England; Mesdames T. S. Moffat and Robertson, Victoria. Final arrangements were made to entertain the delegates of the south Vancouver Island district conference on Thursday evening under the convenship of Mrs. J. M. Findlay.

Mrs. J. F. McNaught, convener, reported arrangements have been made to hold the reading course and the first meeting will be held on Monday, October 17, at 2.30 p.m. Mrs. J. M. Findlay announced that the silver tea and flower display were a success. The home economics convener, Mrs. E. Myles, reported that the Lake Hill displays of needlework and knitted and crocheted articles received first and third prizes respectively at the Provincial Exhibition.

Arrangements have been made to hold the annual party for children under 14 years on Friday, October 28, in the Lake Hill Community Hall in aid of the Solarium. Mrs. Massey reported that cushion contest was a financial success.

The ways and means committee appointed are Mesdames W. Webster, E. Myles and W. Carpenter. Tea was served by the hostesses, Mesdames A. S. Moffat and J. M. Findlay.

Three-year students of Royal Jubilee Hospital training school for nurses held a delightful dinner party in the Prince Albert private dining suite at the Empress Hotel last night. The girls were accompanied by Miss Lena Mitchell, superintendent of nurses, and their instructors, covers being laid for about 30 at a table laid with a pale green damask cloth and centred with an artistic floral centerpiece of autumn flowers and fern. The dinner was held in celebration of the presentation of pins to the third-year students, Miss Mitchell making the presentation at the hospital prior to the dinner.

Mrs. James Morris, above, of Bismark, N.D., associate justice of the North Dakota Supreme Court, was elected president of the American Legion Auxiliary at the national convention in Los Angeles.

Chinese Wedding Is Beautiful Ceremony

Over 500 Guests at Lou Poy-Chip Nuptials Last Night

Unusually beautiful in all its details was the wedding solemnized in the Metropolitan United Church last evening between Kathleen, daughter of Mrs. Lowe Chip, and of the late Mr. Chip, and Mr. Henry Lou Poy, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lou Poy of this city.

Rev. A. E. Whitehouse performed the ceremony in the presence of a large congregation, and Mr. Edward Parsons played the wedding marches on the arrival and departure of the bridal party and accompanied Miss Bessie Hope in her solo, "Madrigal," during the signing of the register.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with standard baskets of chrysanthemums and greenery, and Colonial bouquets marked the guest pews.

Mr. Lowe Yun, uncle of the bride, gave her in marriage. She was a charming picture in her lovely wedding gown of ivory satin, with long, full train, the softly shirred bodice having long sleeves fitting to a point over the wrists, and a Medici collar. Her filmy veil of exquisite lace was arranged in Mary Queen of Scots style, caught with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of roses showered with swansonia.

SIX ATTENDANTS

The bride's retinue included four pretty bridesmaids, a dainty flower girl and a diminutive ring-bearer. The bridesmaids, all gowned alike in bouffant frocks of net over satin, suggested a rainbow in their pastel-colored gowns. Miss Elsie Lowe, the bride's sister, and Miss Violet Eng, Vancouver, being in pink and white net over pink satin, and Miss Lily O. Lowe and Miss Lily Lowe, sister of the bride, in turquoise blue net over pink satin.

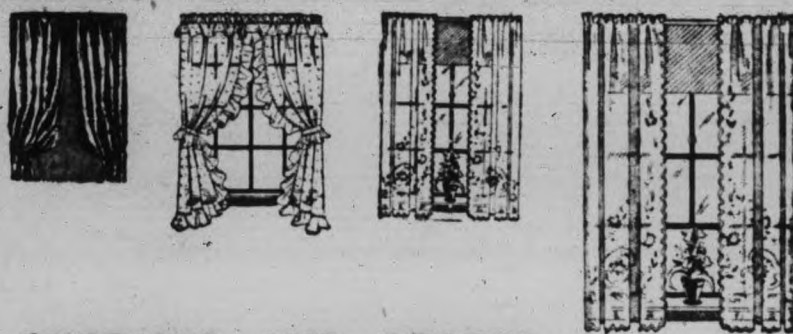

All wore doll hats of rose pink and carried arm bouquets of white chrysanthemums and pink carnations. Little Cynthia Yipp, aged four, was the flower girl in a pretty frock of pink marquisette, trimmed with bows of pale blue ribbon, with a doll hat made of flowers to match, and carried a Colonial bouquet of flowers in pastel shades. Four-year-old Ronald Lou Poy, wearing a tuxedo suit and a rose boutonhole, was the ring bearer. Mr. Peter Lou Poy, brother of the groom, was best man and the ushers included Douglas Sam, Bing Joe and George Lowe.

OVER 500 AT RECEPTION

Over 500 guests were entertained at the reception, held in the A.O.F. Hall after the ceremony. The hall was effectively decorated with masses of autumn flowers, the young couple standing beneath a floral arch, flanked by standard baskets of chrysanthemums, gladioli and other flowers to receive the felicitations of their many friends.

Mrs. Lowe Chip received the guests in a handsome gown of black satin, and a black hat, wearing a corsage bouquet of roses, and was assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lou Poy, the latter in a becoming frock of turquoise blue taffeta, with hat en suite, and wearing a corsage bouquet of gardenias.

Dancing was enjoyed to the strains of a five-piece orchestra, and supper was served from tables decked with flowers. The four-tier wedding cake centred the prettily-decorated bride's table and was cut by the bride with appropriate ceremonial and

Song Recital Opens Season

Musical Arts Society Presentation Delights Audience

By G.J.D.

A co-ordinated song recital of definite interest "was given by Joan Peebles, contralto, and Theo Karle, tenor, at the Empire Theatre yesterday evening, sponsored by the Victoria Musical Arts Society in its opening concert of the season.

The large audience present, among whom were the society's patrons, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. E. W. Hamber, was inclined to be coldly critical at the opening, but as the contrasting program proceeded, applause was bestowed upon the two artists in enthusiastic manner.

Both singers have very high standards, combining many years of stage experience and fame, and it was distinctly evident that each had minds fully alive to the subtleties of lieder and of words to music.

They never meandered but, caring for every phase and practiced phrase, each was a model in an aria or in a song's process of correctness and good taste. They had a vibrant personality, and in the two duets were especially delightful, although, singularly enough, duets or even ensemble from opera are somewhat tame, and formal when sung in evening attire. Nevertheless, in the remarkable "Garden Scene" from "Boris Godunov," its wonderful slow-swinging, seductive rhythm and melody, in admirable blending of voices and the intensity of its portend, was a superb achievement, as was repeated in Verdi's exquisite duet, the "Al nostro monti" (Home of Our Mountains) from "Il Trovatore," the audience responding with rounds of applause.

JOAN PEEBLES

Joan "Brownie" Peebles, of charming personality in affiance with a beautiful voice, possesses those qualities of heart and mind which she quickly adjusts to meet the many vocal mood qualities of a modern program.

Theo Karle allows his voice to run along smoothly, always beautifully "placed," and his verbal and emotional emphasis were splendidly obtained without upsetting his balance. He was impressive and pleasing, a most entertaining singer.

Donald Macrae was a most sympathetic accompanist, and Mme. Peebles was the recipient of many beautiful floral tributes.

Buttons to 49 Anglers

Sports Mirror

By PETE SALLAWAY

ROGERS HORNSBY was right when he said half of the major league baseball managers are there only to be bounced when owners require an alibi for their failure or inability to line up required talent. Gabby Street was treated even more shabbily than some of the others. Every body, including the president of the St. Louis Cardinals, admits that Street got the most out of the material at hand.

There was nothing wrong with Street's generalship when he piloted the St. Louis Cardinals to pennants in 1930 and 1931 and to a world championship the latter fall.

Joe Kirkwood, golf's trick shot artist, gave an exhibition in Regina recently but his son caught the fancy of reporters with pictures and stories of his dad's recent world tour with Walter Hagen.

Young Kirkwood is known as "Joe," but that isn't his name. "My first name's a bit sissy," the lad explained, "so just call me Joe Junior." He was born in Melbourne, Australia, 20 years ago.

Joe Jr. acts as caddy for his father and shags the balls as Joe Sr. performs his trick shots.

He said he liked Canada and particularly Canada's girls. "I'm going to marry a northern girl," he said. "They're all pretty, much prettier than the girls in the south." By the south Joe Jr. meant Florida.

Joe refers to his dad as "the old man." Speaking of plans for next winter, he said: "The old man's going to practice this winter and take in a few tournaments next season."

He brought out some pictures Joe Sr. took during his tour. One showed an elephant which the youngster said had been his father's caddy in Burma.

"The old man fell off him and nearly busted his shoulder," Joe laughed.

Joe plans to follow in his father's footsteps, touring the world in trick-shot exhibitions.

"The old man likes it in Canada," he said, "and I told you I did. I'm coming back some time. I'm practicing golf some this trip and I bat out nearly 400 balls a day while the old man is playing his exhibitions. He shows me a trick and I stay with it till I grasp it, so maybe I'll be on a tour of my own some day."

Tennis followers who took in the United States singles finals are still chuckling about Ben Dwight's announcement... explaining why the Don Budge-Gene Mako match started 15 minutes late... "Please excuse the delay," chirped Umpire Dwight... "Mr. Mako has mislaid his racquets..." The funniest part of it was that it was true... There was a precedent for the dull men's final... some 10 years ago... when Bill Tilden beat Francis T. Hunter... They, too, were close friends and doubles partners... utterly unable, when opposed to one another, to work up to the pitch of combativeness that makes a tense struggle possible.

Ferrier Captures Match With Locke

SYDNEY, Australia.—Jim Ferrier, Australian open golf champion, defeated Bobby Locke, the Irish and South African open champion, in a classic match at Manly today.

Ferrier nosed out a victory at the 37th hole after Locke, with superlative putting, had come from behind to square the match at the 33rd. The Australian champion was 3 up at the end of the first round. After Locke drew even the next three holes were halved. On the 37th Locke's putt lifted the cup and Ferrier won it with a birdie three.

Prized Awards By Victoria-Saanich Inlet Association

Amid the friendly jibes of brother members of the rod, those anglers who succeeded in catching big salmon this year at Brentwood came forward to receive their coveted buttons from President Tommy W. MacPherson at a well-attended general meeting of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association last night in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium.

Forty-nine buttons, 41 of which were bronze and the remainder silver, were won during the year. The biggest salmon caught was a 38-pound silver button specimen by Bill Pomeroy, while Mrs. George Smith was high in the ranks of the fair sex members with a 31-pounder. Pomeroy is top man in the race for the cherished Chinook Club championship, while Mrs. Smith leads in the Schwengens Cup race.

President MacPherson, in giving a summary of the season's activities, noted that the membership had reached its highest point in the club's history, there being 510 paid-up members. That was an increase of 67 members over the previous year.

FISHING POOR

The anglers' chief pointed out that fishing had not been good during the season, but better prizes had played a big part in swelling the membership roll. To illustrate the poor fishing, he said that in 1937, buttons presented averaged one for every five members, while this season they averaged only one for every 10 members. The president expressed thanks to all those who had contributed to make the association's activities a success, and made particular mention of Dave Cook, who had worked untiringly as secretary to put the club over the top, and George "Joker" Patton and Horace Beer for sponsoring the international derby.

Secretary Cook's financial statement showed that the club would finish the year with a good bank balance, despite the fact it had purchased the prizes for two of the three competitions. Another hard worker, George Patton, who is chairman of the investigation and tackle committee, was given a big hand when he got up to make his report. He was of the opinion that the members liked the idea of the association buying the prizes for derbies rather than having them donated, as was the case in previous years. He urged all to get behind the association next year. "It's going to be a bigger and better year," he said.

Harry Woolston, president of the Chinook Club, reported that his group was arranging the Tillicum Club's free salmon derby on Sunday at Brentwood.

The meeting was unanimously in favor of allowing all members who catch a button-size fish from the start of the season up to the last competition to compete for the Alcock Shield. A motion to that effect was passed. This year the first three prizewinners in each of the association's three derbies were the only ones to compete for the shield.

It was decided to present a replica of the Joker's International Cup to the winner each year, which he or she will retain. All past winners of the cup will receive a miniature.

Grimm Passes Up Baseball Opener

CHICAGO.—Charley Grimm, deposited as manager of Chicago Cubs late in July, passed up the 1938 world series opener.

"I just can't enjoy any game where I don't have anything to do," said Grimm, now a radio broadcaster.

Baseball commissioner K. M. Landis barred Grimm from broadcasting the series on an international aspect today as net stars from England, Australia and Yugoslavia move into competition for the first time.

The foreign acts include Jack Bromwich and Adrian Quist, Australia's fast doubles team; Ronald Shays and Eric Fluby, English Davis Cup team members; Nancve Wayne, Australia; Franjo Kukuljevic, Yugoslavia; Margy Lumb, England; Harry Hopman, captain of the Australian Davis Cup contingent; Charles Hare of England and D. Stevenson, another Australian.

Men's doubles, mixed doubles and women's singles will occupy the attention of the foreign stars today.

Reading, Pa.—Joe Savoldi, 208, Twin Oaks, Mich., threw Jake Patterson, 224, Syracuse, N.Y., 26.00.

Indianapolis—Louis Thesz, 224, St. Louis, threw Ralph Garibaldi, 211, New York, two falls.

Phillies Get May

Prize Package of Baseball Draft Goes to National League Club; Gelbert and Parmelee Return to Majors

CHICAGO.—The "new deal" that Philadelphia's fabled Phillies hope to swing under their new manager, Dr. James T. Prothro, was off to a fine start today with the acquisition of Merrill May, Newark third baseman and generally regarded as the "prize" of the big league draft meeting.

May has been one of the standouts of the "wonder team" of Newark. Bears that have moved down the rest of the International League for the last two seasons. He batted .333 this season.

Altogether, 17 players were drafted from the minors by 10 of the 16 big league clubs.

Two well-liked veterans of the big leagues were brought back when Washington Senators selected gallant Charley Gelbert, ex-St. Louis Cardinal infielder, from Toledo, and Philadelphia Athletics picked Roy (Tarzan) Parmelee, former New York Giants, Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals pitcher, from Minneapolis.

Parmelee was one of five picked by Connie Mack for the A's. The others were pitcher Bill Beckman, who won 20 games for Atlanta, Henry Phippen, 17-game winner for Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League; Joe Gantenbein, Toronto third-sacker, and Bill Nagel, infielder and outfielder from Baltimore.

Others selected were: By Phillies—Legrant Scott, Indianapolis outfielder.

By Brooklyn—Hugh Casey, Memphis pitcher, and Russ Evans, Jersey City hurler.

By St. Louis Cardinals—Jimmy Outlaw, Syracuse third baseman.

By Pittsburgh—Fern Bell, Louisville outfielder, and Jack Leuluch, Rochester third-baseman.

By St. Louis Browns—Hal Spindel, Seattle catcher.

By Chicago White Sox—Art Herring, St. Paul pitcher.

By Detroit Tigers—James C. Moore, Columbus pitcher.

By Boston Red Sox—Wayman Kerkisek, Little Rock pitcher.

FOREIGN TENNIS STARS COMPETE

English and Australian Davis Cup Players Play at Berkeley

BERKELEY, Calif.—The Pacific Coast tennis championships will take on an international aspect today as net stars from England, Australia and Yugoslavia move into competition for the first time.

Seattle Drivers Will Compete in Meet at Langford Track

Automobile racing fans will get their last chance to watch crack United States drivers in action this season when a meet is staged on Monday afternoon at the Langford Speedway. The program will get under way at 2. Heading the American pilots will be Swede Linskog who has proven so popular with the customers in meets this year. Jack Spaulding will also be over along with two other boys from Seattle.

Tonight at the track the Victoria drivers will put their cars through tests in preparation for the meet. The following will compete. Digger Caldwell, George White, Bert Sutton, Buddy Green, Jimmy Laird, Jerry Ventrigh and Fred Carson.

Model-T and bug races will be held, along with the Australian pursuit event. Entries for the first mentioned two are asked to communicate with Jack Smith.

Bill O'Connor will act as starter and Frank Gooch will be the recorder. Two timekeepers will be selected later this week, while Ed. Allen will be the pit boss, and Jack Taylor will be on the public address system again. The St. John Ambulance Corps will be on the ground during the races.

Coast Hockey Opening Set

First Game Oct. 23: Defer Action on New Westminster Franchise

SPOKANE.—Governors of the Pacific Coast Hockey League set the 1938-39 season schedule at a meeting here last night but deferred action on the proposed admittance of New Westminster, B.C., as a fifth team in the loop.

The governors said President Fred (Cyclone) Taylor of Vancouver would make a definite announcement on the entry after conferring with New Westminster officials yesterday.

The league heads set the season's opening game for Spokane Sunday October 23, with the Seattle Sea Hawks as the visiting team. Spokane will travel to Vancouver to open the Lions' season the following night, play at Seattle November 2 and open the Portland season Thursday, November 3. Portland will take to the road the following week, invading Spokane Sunday, November 6.

William Shaver was appointed referee-in-chief for the league. Cully Wilson and Amby Moran were named referees.

Governors at the session in addition to Taylor were R. P. Rowe, Portland; Phil Lyette, Seattle; Guy Patrick, Vancouver and Art Rud, Spokane.

Informal discussions of possible player deals were expected to follow a midnight recess, but the owners declined to comment on prospects.

Major League Stars Perform

VANCOUVER.—Minus only the famous sluggers of the New York Yankees, who will be engaged in their world series duel with Gaby Hartnett's Chicago Cubs, Earle Mack's American League all-stars will reach Vancouver from Seattle Monday morning at 8 for a two-game exhibition series, curtain-raiser of their Canadian tour.

There are enough of the big leaguers for a two-side match and Canadian fans will have a chance to see their favorites in action as they might be in a regular league game.

The American Leaguers are touring by Canadian Pacific lines, and will leave here Tuesday for Calgary, where they will play an afternoon exhibition Wednesday, October 12. They will leave Calgary Wednesday, arriving in St. Paul via the Soo Line and Canadian Pacific Friday.

Although only Vancouver and Calgary fans will have a chance to see the players in action in exhibition games, baseball fans along the Canadian Pacific route will at least have a chance to storm the train sheds for a glimpse, and possibly autographs, of their favorites.

Members of the Elks football team are requested to attend a practice at the Athletic Park tomorrow evening at 6.30.

LORNE RITCHIE IS AGAIN CAGE HEAD

For the third consecutive year Lorne Ritchie was returned as president of the Sunday School Basketball League last night at the annual meeting held in the Y.M.C.A. Vivian Shoemaker was elected vice-president and Fred Harding re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Brother English and Tom Ellis were named to the executive committee.

Teams entered in the two divisions to date follow: Junior, Beavers, St. Louis College, Y.M.C.A., Star Dynamics, Chinese Students and the Maple Leafs; Intermediate, St. Louis College and the Alcos. The closing date for entries was placed at October 15.

A vote of thanks was passed to the Dominoes Basketball Club for a donation during last season. Question of the use of the Y.M.C.A. gym this season was discussed and left in abeyance until the next meeting.

Is Sick With Three Teams Playing in Big And Little World Series

By EDDIE BRIETZ Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Attention, St. Louis Browns, hundreds of fans in southern Illinois are signing petitions asking that you give old Babe Ruth a whirl at managing the team next season.

Lou Nova, the coast heavy-weight who upset Gunnar Barlund as well as every critic in town, will be brought back as soon as possible. Already he has agreed to fight Tommy Farr, Max Baer or Bob Pastor, December 16, and may be called in before that. Tony Galento, booked in Philly November 14, begins training in two more weeks.

Mike Jacobs leaves for California Saturday to look over prospects for a spring spot for Joe Louis. . . . Pity poor Col. Jake Ruppert with all his millions, his brewery and his Fifth Avenue building. . . . He has one ball club going into the world series today and two more fighting it out for the "little world series." . . . As for the colonel, he's laid up with the gout and won't see a game.

Youngest manager in the national semi-pro tournament at Wichita this year was Bill Hayes, 20, who piloted the Barrington (N.H.) Orioles. . . . Bill brought his team to the tournament wearing black uniforms, but that's not the yarn. . . . Bill is the scion of a wealthy New England family and one of these days will be a millionaire in his own right. . . . Guess what his ambition is—club owner? . . . No, a major league umpire.

MRS. KINGSCOTE GOLF CAPTAIN

Will Head Women of Cowichan Club for Year; James Martin Winner

DUNCAN.—The women members of the Cowichan Golf Club held their annual meeting in the clubhouse Monday afternoon. Mrs. F. G. Aldersey, the retiring captain, gave a brief resume of the year's activities, and expressed thanks to her committee, and to Mrs. A. Irvine who had been captain of the C players and had done much to promote competitions.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Mrs. T. Kingscote, captain; Mrs. W. Prest, vice-captain; Mrs. A. H. Peterson, secretary; Mrs. F. G. Aldersey, Mrs. S. Smith, Mrs. O. T. Smythe and Miss J. Duncan. The captain of the C players will be chosen by the committee. Prior to the meeting, a putting competition was held in which Mrs. Prest and Mrs. Manson tied for first place, the former winning the playoff. The annual general meeting of the club will be held on October 12.

By defeating W. B. Harper 3 up and 2 to play, in the final, James Martin won the Senior's Cup competition of the Cowichan Golf Club on Sunday.

Prizes won during the recent Army and Navy Veterans' golf tournament at the Gorge Valley Club will be presented by Mayor Andrew McGavin at the club headquarters tomorrow. A social evening will be held, commencing at 8. Seven foursomes in billiards will be run off during the program.

Northwest Stars to Appear

Riders From Portland, Seattle and Vancouver Here for Event Monday

For many years rated as the highlight attraction, on the Thanksgiving Day sports program, the annual hill climb of the Victoria Motorcycle Club will be staged at Mount Douglas Monday afternoon. Present indications point to a good outside entry. The program will start at 2.

The reason for keener interest from outside points over this popular meet is due to the fact that substantial cash prizes will be given in the featured open Vancouver Island championship event. This will be the first year money prizes have been offered. From across the border entries are expected from Aberdeen, Portland, Seattle and Bellingham, while a number of Vancouver riders have signified their intention of competing for the first time in the local event.

Louis Kaelin, crack Seattle iron-steed pilot, who has taken the island championship here a number of times, will be back to try and repeat his successes. Opposing him this year, however, will be Otto Draeger, polished Aberdeen rider, who is present holder of the B.C. Trevor championship. He beat Kaelin at Kelowna to win this crown. Trevor Deeley, Vancouver, who placed third in the Kelowna meet, is among the other out-of-town riders who will pilot his bucking machine up the stiff grade in quest of honors.

LOCAL ENTRY

Four local speed demons, Frank Bayless, Charlie Davies and Bob and Reg Shanks, intend to give the visiting contestants some stiff competition in the island title event. They will enter the competition with special souped-up machines. There will be other local entries in this contest also.

Two other events are listed on the program. There will be the club championship event for the handsome Paul Girardou Trophy for local members only, and the novice event for local club members who have not placed first, second or third in any hillclimb. These two events were won by Newton Cameron last year, and he will be out with his powerful German B.M.W. to defend his championship honors and take part in the featured competition.

There should be lots of action for spectators as the machines attempt to negotiate the tough grade, which according to officials of the club, is in good shape. The club will wind up its program with a dance in the evening at the Crystal Garden, to which the public is invited. Awards won during the day will be presented at the dance.

Royal Arcanum and Liberty Cafe Draw

After hotly-contested battles last night in the Crystal Garden headquarters, Royal Arcanum and Liberty Cafe, smart senior table tennis squads, finished up in an 8 to 8 deadlock. Wally Bowden won all his games for the Arcanum, while Laurie Greenwood, Liberty Cafe player, won three and lost one.

Other first division games resulted in MacDonald Electric scoring an 11 to 5 victory over Louis Nelson's Garage. Acres trimming Fairfield 14 to 2, Renfrew Bros. Cleaners turning back Hollywood Club 16 to 0.

Help Rebuild and Hold Your Vital Energies
and Driving Power

• You may be at that critical age when so many begin to feel themselves sliding downhill—to feel mentally and physically "through". No energy—always fatigued out—grumpy—irritable—no courage—no self-confidence. You feel unable to tackle anything new—everything seems an impossible task—you feel yourself giving way to more energetic, more vigorous men.

These are all symptoms of "premature old age"—of the morbid depression and discouragement that come of having allowed your vital energies to fall to a low ebb. You feel devalued. But you're not "through"! Your sagging energies are waiting to be fortified and rebuilt. Like thousands of others, you can help regain your old driving power and stamina — through the simple use of PHYLOSAN (pronounced Fill-O-San).

Phylosan tablets are the discovery of one of the world's leading physicians—Dr. E. BUEGLI, PROFESSOR OF MEDICINE AT THE UNIVERSITY OF BERNE, SWITZERLAND. Phylosan contains no habit-forming drugs, no animal extracts. A product whose principal ingredient comes from purely natural sources, Phylosan cooperates with the natural processes of your body to enrich and invigorate your blood, strengthen your nerves, rebuild all your vital forces. And the beneficial effects are not temporary but lasting.

Just two tiny tablets before meals. Yet take them regularly, and soon you will begin to feel yourself "coming back"—both physically and mentally—improved in energy—buoyant, vigorous—ready to take work and play in full stride—self-confident. If you are past forty, you will probably begin to feel years younger! Start taking PHYLOSAN tablets today.

Want Logging Laws Altered

Victoria Horticultural Society to Urge
Timber Preservation

The Victoria Horticultural Society, at its meeting in the City Hall last night passed a resolution deploring the devastation and wastage of timber in British Columbia, and protesting against the use of high-lead logging.

The resolution, which was suggested to the society last month by Claude L. Harrison, will urge upon the government the use of other systems of logging, or at least, that they be given a trial. In part the resolution said "we urge that the various industries be more firmly controlled and supervised; that the control of logging operations on Crown lands, immediately, be more fully exercised in the interest of the public and that greater financial support be given to the supervision and permanent control of this basic industry."

W. R. Foster of the staff of the Dominion Experimental Station at Saanichton was the speaker. He lectured on the important diseases of vegetables, flowers and fruits and showed pictures to illustrate his talk. Members of the society took notes on Mr. Foster's talk, which was one of the most valuable heard this year.

He recommended rotation of crops to starve the organisms that lived on plant roots.

The society decided to assume the assets and carry on the work of the Vancouver Island Horticultural Association, which in the past has sponsored such events as the Spring Garden Festival and seasonal flower shows.

Many interesting specimens of chrysanthemums and carrots were brought by members for the monthly competitions. Mrs. E. Ludbrook won first place in the "mum" class. F. D. Rawlins was second and Mrs. E. S. Michell won in the novice class. W. R. Nicholls won first place for carrots, with A. E. Powell second and Mrs. Michell first in the novice class.

THREE APPEALS ARE DISMISSED

The Court of Appeal completed hearing of four cases yesterday, dismissed three and reserved judgment on one.

James Johnson had appeared in person and failed to establish an argument of mistaken identity in the trial which sent him to Oakalla for 18 months on a robbery charge.

The appeal of Melford John Wooley against conviction on a charge of committing an indecent assault on a 13-year-old girl was dismissed. The prisoner was sentenced by Mr. Justice Manson to 18 months in Oakalla following an assize court trial in Vancouver May 4 of this year. D. L. McAlpine appeared for the appellant and J. A. Grimmett for the Crown respondent.

Judgment was reserved on the appeal of Vincent Brown against conviction on a charge of rape at Wingdam, B.C. F. C. Hall represented Brown and D. L. McAlpine the Crown.

The court dismissed the appeal of Sidney W. Miller, sentenced to three and one-half months by Mackenzie Matheson, deputy police magistrate in Vancouver, on a charge of wounding David Findlay. V. G. Felton presented the case for the appellant. H. W. Davey, for the Crown, was not required to speak.

Pension Problems Discussed By Aged

Problems surrounding the securing of pensions for the aged were discussed yesterday at a meeting of the Old Age Pensioners' Organization in the Eagles' Hall. The meeting was attended by 90 members with Henry Wilson presiding.

Speakers dealing with the pensioners' difficulties included Henry Gordon, who also outlined the objects of the organization; P. Chesworth, Mrs. Wilkinson, D. R. Brenner and Mrs. S. Johnson.

The Ward Two Liberal Association reported to the association it would take up with the central executive the move to reduce the pension age to 65 and increase the allowance to $25 monthly.

SUFFERING IN CHINA DESCRIBED

Mrs. Colin Rutherford
Re-elected Head of China-Japan Society

Mrs. Colin H. Rutherford has been re-elected president and treasurer of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Friends of the Chinese People.

Following accounts of the season's activities, presented at the annual meeting, Mrs. Rutherford outlined in some detail the events which had led to the formation of the Victoria branch of the Canadian Friends of the Chinese People. The speaker said the campaign now being conducted had the object of raising funds to purchase a motor ambulance for China. She painted a vivid word-picture of the appalling conditions in the country of her birth, especially among the peasantry who have crowded terror-stricken into the cities, creating a grave problem. She told of one case where some 500 orphans had been placed in charge of a mission. Enemy bombing planes had been in the neighborhood and the older children helped to dig a trench where all could be sheltered, in case of attack. Although no military advantage could possibly be gained, enemy planes bombed the mission and only some 50 children survived the attack. She stressed that not only the war wounded but these innocent victims of the military machine of Japan were in dire need of help.

Dr. D. M. Baillie spoke of the recent visit to Victoria of Dr. McClure, who had been sent by the Chinese government to stress the need of all sorts of assistance to the hospitals already established in China.

Both Mrs. Rutherford and Dr. Baillie spoke of the excellent work being done on an unbelievably small budget by the Chinese themselves.

Plans for the annual dinner of the society were discussed.

Edward H. Livesay to Speak on Empire
Broadcast Friday

Edward H. Livesay, Victorian whose hobby is riding on the footplates of railway locomotives, will speak from London over the British Broadcasting Corporation's short wave Transmission 6 on Friday evening, according to word received by friends here.

Transmission 6 is broadcast from the Empire station at Daventry between 6.20 and 8.20 p.m., Victoria time.

Mr. Livesay's talk will be on Canadian and British railway engines. The exact time he will go on the air is not known.

Recently Mr. Livesay traveled the whole distance from Vancouver to New York riding in the cabs of the various locomotives which pulled his train, and since his arrival in Britain he has covered 2,500 miles in the same manner.

A pair of crutches and a cane, both used by cliff dwelling Indians of the southwest about 1200 A.D., are in a Chicago museum.

The Air Around the Earth

III—GASES IN THE AIR

More than three-fourths of the air we breathe is a gas called nitrogen. It can be taken from the air and used in making ammonia and other things of value, but if all the air were nitrogen we could not live.

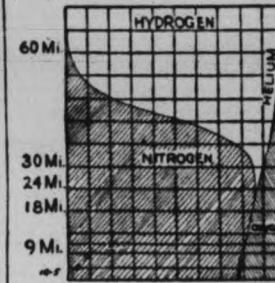

Diagram showing changes in volume of chief gases of the air at different heights.

It is the oxygen in the air which gives our lungs what they most need. This gas makes up a little more than one-fifth of the air.

A small part of the air is "argon," less than 1 per cent. The chief use of argon is as a gas to mix with nitrogen in filling electric light bulbs.

Another gas in the air is "carbon dioxide." It is present only in tiny amounts, but it is important. Plants have the power of taking it from the air, and using the carbon for their growth.

If plants did not have this supply of carbon, they would not grow. If there were no plants, animals could not live and people could not live. So we may be glad the air has that tiny amount of carbon dioxide—less than one part in a thousand.

Another important part of the air is water vapor. Sometimes the air is dry, and there is little water vapor in it, but on other days it contains a great deal, perhaps as much as 4 or 5 per cent.

If we figure all the water vapor in the earth's air, it amounts to billions of tons. It has been estimated that there is enough of it to cover every square foot of the earth to a depth of four inches. We may be glad it doesn't all come down at once!

Water vapor gives us rain. It also gives us snow, frost, clouds, fog, and sleet. As I have said before, the vapor rises into the air because sunshine heats water. In every second of time, the sun is shining on part of the earth, and is turning water of oceans, seas and rivers into vapor.

Water vapor tends to be a good deal lighter than other gases in the air. That is why it rises, and often forms high clouds. Vapor more heavy than usual may hang over the ground as a fog.

Tests have proved what the air contains up to heights of less than 25 miles. Above that height, we do not know exactly, but some scientists believe that the nitrogen and oxygen grow less and less, and that air over 60 miles high is made up almost entirely of hydrogen and helium. Helium is widely known because it is the safest gas which can be put into airships. Hydrogen is the lightest gas known. Like helium, it is used for balloons, but there is danger of fire when hydrogen is employed.

HOROSCOPE

Thursday, October 6, 1938

Mingled good and evil planetary influences are discerned in the horoscope for today, according to astrology. The morning hours will be fortunate for executives. Employers should benefit.

Mars is in a threatening aspect, but the seers declare that a world war may not break out within two years, although crises will develop frequently.

General Franco, whose stars appear to presage victory before many more months have passed, is to become a subject of intense international irritation.

Russia will force concessions from Japan in connection with the Chinese invasion. The horoscope of the emperor of Japan shows internal troubles of gravest moment, economic problems and extreme suffering on the part of the people.

As dictators appear to be at the zenith of their power, the seers foretell future loss of popularity. Change in the form of government in Russia at the end of this decade is prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of prosperity and advancement, but jealousy is indicated. Temptation to spend too freely should be overcome.

Children born on this day probably will be fond of physical exercise and mentally alert. Subjects of this sign of Libra usually are lucky and win early successes.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am 40 years old and weigh 240 pounds. My husband has begged me to diet but I cannot do it. I love to eat and only go to my friends' homes when they invite me to a big dinner, as that is my greatest interest in them. My husband works in an office where he is with beautiful girls every day, and he is always telling me how pretty they look and what nice slim figures they have. The other evening Mrs. A. called to see me. She looked so neat and well-kept and 10 years younger than I do, though she is older, that I got so jealous of her I wouldn't speak to her and she got up and left. Will you please tell me how to regain my husband's love and my friend's respect?

A JEALOUS WIFE.

Answer: You can probably make up with your friend by apologizing for your rudeness, especially if you will explain to her that it was inspired by your being envious of her slim and attractive figure and her youthfulness. That is a compliment that would butter any feminine parsnips.

The problem as to how you are to regain your attractiveness in your husband's eyes is more difficult to solve. For you must admit that a woman who weighs 240 pounds has little physical allure, except for Orientals, whose taste run to fat instead of bone, as with westerners.

And, alas, there is not much that you can do now to improve matters. The dieting that would have been effective 20 years ago in maintaining a willowy figure is not to be thought of now. It would not only be hazardous to your health, but also ruinous to such good looks as you have left, for when those who have been stout for a long time reduce, their skin hangs in folds upon them. It ages them until they look almost prehistoric. In addition, it ruins their dispositions and makes them so unpleasant to live with that their families and friends entreat them to return once more to their chocolate creams and amiability and let the scales go hang.

The most that you can do is to cut down on your sweets and starches and fats enough to keep from gaining any more and put in the remainder of your energies in keeping yourself neat, well-groomed and well-dressed; in making yourself so interesting, pleasant and agreeable that nobody will care whether you have a string-bean figure or are an understudy of a haystack.

In the matter of personal appearance, preparedness is the word for every woman. There are lots of things she can do about her looks if she begins in time, but that are unchangeable if she waits too long. Any woman who starts at 20 to keep her girlish figure can do it by counting her calories and controlling her appetite, but she can't gorge herself until she is middle-aged and then expect to look like a flapper.

Nor can a woman go around sloppy and slouchy, ill-dressed and ill-groomed and suddenly turn into a fashion plate. Nor can she let her mind go to seed and then expect to reap a harvest of brilliance. All of these things which we call personality are built up through the years until they become a part of us. And our husbands and our friends have the picture of us as being attractive or unattractive so firmly fixed in their minds that we cannot change it.

It is important now, as never before, for the wife who wants to hold her husband to keep herself attractive, because every man works side by side with pretty, smart, well-dressed girls with whom the sloppy wife is inevitably brought into comparison, which bodes her no good.

1. Is it bad manners for a man who is dining with a woman to glance over his check before paying it?
2. If one is invited to a party given to announce an engagement, is one expected to take a gift?
3. Should a bride limit the number of showers her friends give for her?
4. If you have a good friend who is getting married, is it all right to give her a personal gift for her trousseau?
5. If you must complain of the food or service in a restaurant to whom should you speak?

want a satisfactory way of splitting expenses—

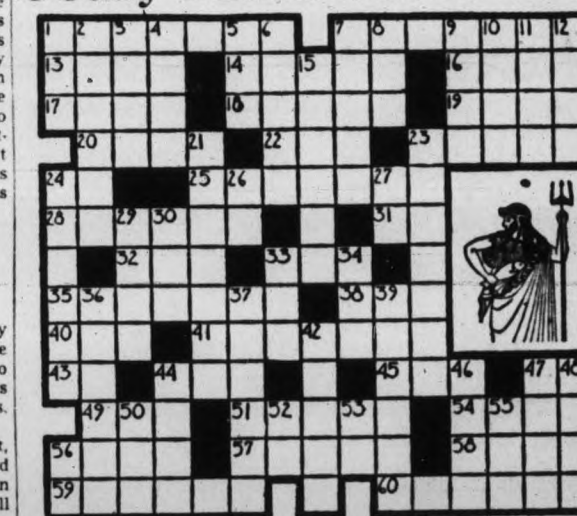

- (a) Settle the payment between you—in front of the girls?
- (b) Let one do the paying and straighten things out after you have taken the girls home?
- (c) You pay the expenses one night and let your friend pay the next?

Answers

1. No.
2. No.
3. Yes. Otherwise it works a hardship on the guests who have to give a number of presents.
4. Yes. Though that does not take the place of a wedding gift, which should be something that both the bride and groom can use.
5. The head waiter.

MONARCH IN PENSIVE MOOD—Facing the problems of his far-flung Empire as war clouds hovered over Europe, King George VI was grave and thoughtful as he returned from his Scottish palace to London to attend the funeral of Prince Arthur of Connaught at St. George's Chapel, Windsor.

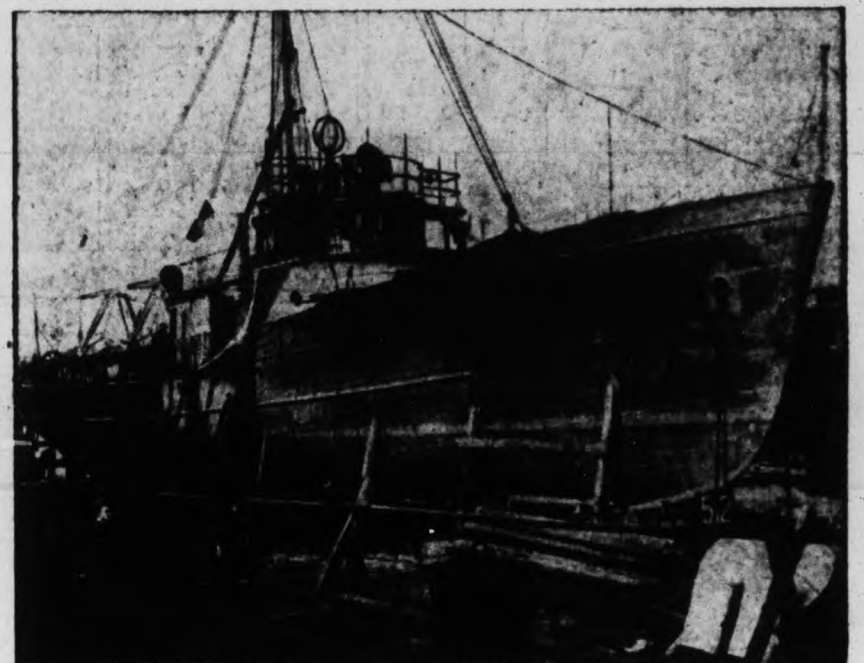

NEW CANADIAN FIGHTING UNITS REACH CANADA—On the left, above, is H.M.C.S. Restigouche, commanded by Lt.-Commander W. B. L. Holms, while on the right, above, is the senior ship, H.M.C.S. Ottawa, in command of Captain V. G. Brodeur, as the ships pass up the St. Lawrence River on their way to Montreal.

To the left is the official reception party. Commander R. Brook, highest ranking naval official in Montreal, welcomes Captain V. G. Brodeur. Captain J. P. Dufour, Harbor Master, also is present to welcome the two ships. He is at the right, with Captain Brodeur in the centre.

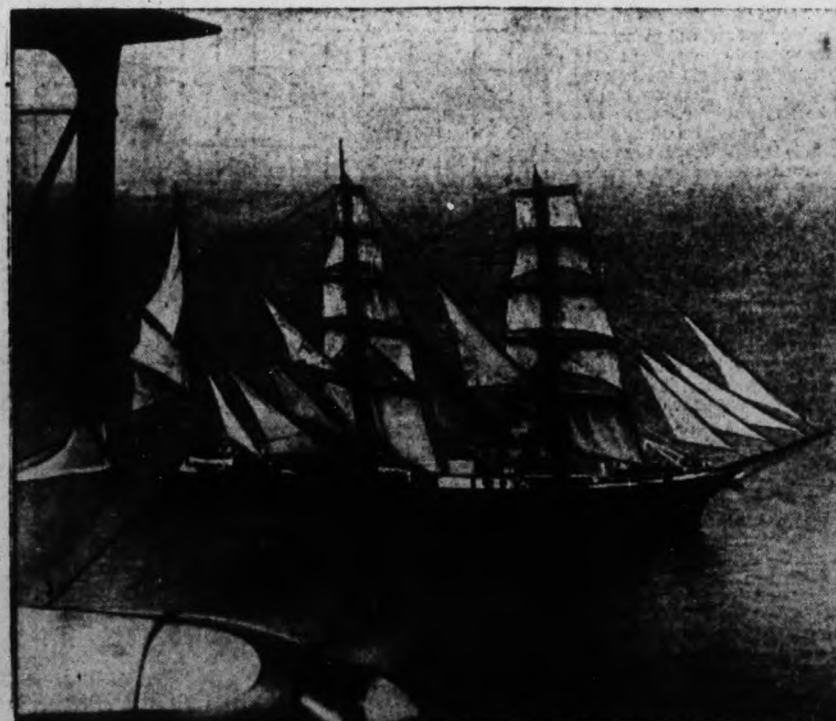

EAST INDIAN BANKER IN MONTREAL—"Just fishing around for pointers on banking," is the way K. G. Ambegoakar, officer in charge, agricultural credit department, Reserve Bank of India, describes his presence in Canada. He arrived in Montreal with his wife aboard the Cunarder Ausonia. While the husband looks every inch the dignified and reserved bank official in his English style clothes, his wife has clung to Oriental garb. A Hindu, as is her husband, she wears a long pink sari, which is a loose dress that drops to the ground. A gold band runs around the wide hem. She wears no hat but on her brow is the red dot betokening, according to Hindu rite, that she is a married woman with a husband living. Mr. Ambegoakar is going to consult Bank of Canada Officials in Ottawa, and will visit Toronto.

THIS SHIP HAS NO RUDDER—Built for a British steamship line, the vessel shown above at a recent launching is equipped with two Veith-Schnelder propellers and dispenses with a rudder. The special propellers consist of six blades. They furnish an infinitely variable pitch and all steering is done with their aid, giving the ship exceptional manoeuvrability. The propellers may be seen at the stern of the ship.

CAIRN MARKS RAILWAY EPIC—Port Moody, B.C., was the Pacific terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway in 1885 when the line from Atlantic to the Pacific was completed, and there the first transcontinental train arrived November 8, 1885. To mark the historic event the cairn, erected on city hall grounds at Port Moody, was unveiled October 1, by John Murray, Port Moody's oldest resident, who saw the first train arrive there 53 years ago. In this group pictured beside the memorial are: (left to right) Mayor H. S. Cunningham, Port Moody; John Murray, shaking hands with Judge F. W. Howie of New Westminster; the noted historian; Hon A. Wells Gray, B.C. Member of Municipal affairs, and George H. Baillie, superintendent Vancouver division for the C.P.R.

SHIPS OF THE OLD AND THE NEW DAYS—A fine study in contrasts is this picture, taken from a modern twin-motored plane as it raced by the now-rare sailing vessel making its stately way down the English Channel with all its canvas spread and drawing well. The cliffs of Dover can be seen faintly on the horizon.

AT NEW YORK'S PRO-CZECH RALLY—20,000 persons jammed New York's Madison Square Garden, with over 2,000 more in an overflow meeting outside, at an anti-Hitler rally. Speakers, including Thomas Mann, noted author, self-exiled from Germany, and many prominent Americans, denounced Adolf Hitler's partition of Czechoslovakia before a gigantic poster bearing portraits of President Benes and Czech Premier General Syrovky. Inset below are Helen Baly, left, a Czech and Mary Rovensky, a Slovak, who, in colorful native garb, symbolized the unity of Czechoslovakia. The mass meeting was one of 28 held throughout the United States.
